SEVERAL COSTLY FIRES.

Disastrous Sunday Afternoon Conflagration in Baltimore.

Baltimore, June 9.—One of the most disastrous Sunday conflagrations that ever visited this city occurred on East Monument street to-day. One hundred persons were rendered homeless and $125,000 went up in smoke. The fire broke out a little before 11 o'clock in the planing mill of A. Storick & Co. The flames spread to the lumber adjoining and then to several dwellings. Ten houses adjacent on East Monument street and nine residences on North Front street, in the rear, were gutted, and burned area covering over 1,000 square feet. The planing mill, with its valuable machinery and thousands of dollars' worth of valuable material, and the yard which contained over 100,000 feet of lumber, were wiped away by the flames. There were but little insurance on the houses or their contents. Storick & Co., were insured for $4,000.

Elizabath, N. J., June 9.—A fire in Fitzpatrick row of frame tenements on Court street, Elizabethport, at 3 o'clock this morning, nearly resulted in the loss of two lives. Mary Menzell, a widow, jumped from a second story window and was severely injured. John Grid, a boarder, was rescued and went back after some money he had left in a trunk. He was overcome by the smoke and when found was nearly dead. He may recover. The fire is believed to have been started by an incendiary.

Olean, N. Y., June 9.—Forest fires are reported in what is known as Cawley Run near Austin Pa. A large quantity of logs, a log leader, and a number of cars, the property of the Goodyears, of Buffalo have been distroyed. Men from Austin left this afternoon to fight the fire.

DOUBLE DISASTER.

A Town in Flames and Firemen Who Respond and Killed.

Roseby's Rock, W. Va., June 10.—The special train which left Wheeling with a fire engine for Cameron jumped the track about two miles east of this place at 12:30 o'clock this morning. The train was running at a rapid rate when the engine jumped the rails and turned over on its side down an embankment. The cab caught fire and engineer Duffy was found inside the midst of the flames. He was crushed in a shocking manner and must have died almost instantly. R. Donahue, Jr., of Wheeling, was on a gondola next to the tender and when found was under the trucks. Life was extinct. C. Litton, of Moundsville, was also on the gondola, and had his breast badly crushed. All of the occupants of the caboose, eleven in number, were more or less seriously injured. The following is a list of the killed and injured: Killed—P. Duffy, engineer; Donahue, Jr. wounded—Brakeman Clayton will probably die; C. Litton, of Moundsville W. Va.; W. Dean, conductor;—Short, Baltimore and Ohio special officer; W. S. Faries, city editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer. The body of Frank Ferrell, of Moundsville, was found under a car. The engine is a total wreck.

Cameron, W. Va. June 10.—The fire which started last night burned itself out at 5 o'clock this morning. The entire loss is estimated at $200,000. The fire started in a hay-mow in which some gamblers had been playing, and burned practically everything in the town. Ecker & Holmes's big general store is the haeviest losers, the firm's loss being placed at $60,000. Over 100 people are homeless.

HARMON ON SILVER.

It is all Right if There is an International Agreement.

Washington, June 11.—The new attorney general has views upon the financial question and believes there is no impropriety in expressing them. Judge Harmon made a speech on "Money" at a banquet given in Cincinnati, March 4, to Representative Bellany Storer and the opinions then expressed were reiterated today by the new attorney general. He said:

"I want the American dollar to be just as good as anybody else's dollar, and with that qualification I do not care what it is made of. But in the present situation it seems to me mere folly to talk about the free coinage of silver. The only way we float the silver we now have is by attaching an implied greenback to every silver dollar, or in other words, by the government promising to redeem it with a good dollar, if necessary to keep the two equal. Of course there is a very narrow limit to the government's ability to do that; besides I know of no reason why it should do it.

"If there were free and unlimited coinage of silver the government could not keep the two metals on a parity very long and the result would be, by the law o money that has been settled from the time that man has had money, the gold would all disappear and there would be only a silver basis."

TWO STUDENTS SHOT.

Members of the Freshman Class of Princeton Mortally Wounded.

Trenton, N. J. June 9.—Frederick Pierson Ohl and Garret Cochran, each 19 years of age and both students in the freshman class at Princeton, were shot and dangerously if not mortally wounded at 10 o'clock last night by a negro named John Collins. The shooting took place in an alley in front of the side entrance to Anderson's hotel.

Collins is a laborer, 26 years old. He had had words with the students, and in a fit of rage drew a 22-calibre revolver and fired first at Ohl, then at Cochran, and again at Ohl. All the shots took effect. The bullet fired at Cochran struck him in the mouth and traveled to the base of his right ear. Both of Ohl's wounds were in the stomach. The students dropped to the side walk and were quickly removed to the college hospital.

Collins was placed under arrest by Marshall R. B. Tyrell. He took his prisoner to the town lock-up, but had got him scarcely incarcerated before word of the shooting reached every ear in Princeton and the students gathered on Nassau street by the hundreds. A report gathering circulation that both Ohl and Cochran were dying, the students grew very excited and demands that the negro be lynched went up on every side. "Hang him, hang him" was an exclamation repeated frequently. At the lock-up it was heard some of the students had procured a rope and were marching there in a body. Marshall Tyrell fearing for the prisoner's safety, handcuffed him and went to a piece of woods about a quarter of a mile from the college and kept him there until after midnight. By this time the excitement had subsided and a conveyance was obtained and Marshall Tyrell and two other officers took Collins to the county jail at Trenton.

Stephen Downs, also colored, was lodged in the county jail at the same time. He was in the company of Collins immediately before the shooting took place. Ohl and Cochran, with some other students, it seems were walking down Witherspoon street a little before 10 o'clock. Collins and Downs approached them from an opposite direction and Collins, it is said, used insulting language directing it toward the students. The students rejoined sharply and there was considerable profanity. A few minutes later Cochran and Ohl met Collins in the alley referred to. Downs was a few feet away. Collins stood in the door of the hotel bar and dared the students to enter. They undertook to do so when the negro whipped out his weapon and began the firing.

This is the story of the affair as given by persons who were on the scene soon after the shooting. The negroes would not see reporters in the county jail to-day. Downs bears the reputation of being a peaceable man and he claims that the students assaulted them with fence rails. To-night the wounded students are lying in a critical condition. Dr. Bull, of New York, extracted the bullets from Ohl's body, but has failed to dislodge the one under Cochran's ear.

Ohl belongs in New Castle, Pa. He is a brother of Full Back Ohl, of the Cornell college foot ball team. He played half back in the Princeton freshman foot ball team and was last fall heavy weight cane spreer, winning the only cane won by freshman. Cochran is from Williamsport, Pa. He was captain of the Lawrenceville foot ball team in '93 and played full back with the Princeton team last fall.

Delivered by Hastings.

Philadelphia, June 11.—At the Academy of Music this morning, honored by the presence of Governor Hastings and rendered of great moment by the induction into office of Provost C. C. Harrison, the 139th commencement of the University of Pennsylvania took place, marking the close of the 155th school year. It was witnessed by a throng that filled the spacious theatre. The ceremonies included the conferring of degrees in arts, science, law and philosophy upwards of 200 graduates, the presentation on behalf of the law department of the late Professor Samuel S. Hollingsworth's portrait, and the announcement of honors and prizes. The exercises were preceded by a procession from the University to the Academy. A picturesque appearance was given the march by the city troop of the state National Guard, acting as escort to the governor and by the caps and gowns of the graduates and undergraduates as they followed in line.

DEMOCRATS IN SESSION.

Nominations Made by Acclamation. Resolutions Adopted.

The Democrats of Centre county met in convention in the Court House at 12 o'clock Tuesday.

An organization was effected by the election of Ellis L. Orvis, chairman; roll clerk, W. M. Cronister; secretaries, J. C. Smith, M. I. Gardner and S. M. Graham.

As a committee on resolutions W. C. Heinle, H. A. Moore, Cyrus Brumgard, Frank Foreman and J. H. Lucas were appointed.

The roll call showed a very full attendance of all delegates.

Nominations being then in order, the convention unanimously nominated William F. Smith, for prothonotary, and William J. Singer, for district attorney. These were the only nominations to be made.

T. F. Adams, Aaron Zerbe, T. J. Riley, John D. Long and Howard Moore were elected delegates to the State Convention.

The committee on resolutions then made the following report:

RESOLUTIONS.

The Democracy of Centre County in Convention assembled, reaffirming their belief in and devotion to the principles of Jefferson, Madison, Jackson and Cleveland, hereby declare:

First. We commend and honor the President and his brave and patriotic administration of national affairs, in the midst of the ruin and prostration of business directly caused by the McKinley tariff; his maintenance of law and order in the hour of danger; and we congratulate both Grover Cleveland and the country on the evidence of returning prosperity by reason of Democratic economy and legislation.

Second. We point with pride to the general revival of commerce, trade and industry under the Wilson Tariff Bill, and predict an increasing revival of business and restoration of wages as time develops the beneficial effects of Democratic legislation.

Third. We endorse the financial policy of the Democratic administration, and reaffirm our belief in the principles of our forefathers as enunciated in the national platform, of 1892,

Fourth. We compare with pride and satisfaction, the honest, economical, and constitutional administration of Governor Pattison, with that of the present republican Governor at Harrisburg; and we regard with horror and fear the carnival of profligacy and extravagance now ruling at the State Capital. We condemn the wholesale creation of new and useless offices and the increase of official salaries from a half a million to almost a million and a half of dollars; the refusal to obey the mandate of the constitution in apportioning the state into Congressional, Senatorial and legislative districts, and its subserviency to the trusts and corporations.

Fifth. We mourn the lavish subserviency of the late Legislature to an irresponsible Boss, and we call upon all good and patriotic citizens to unite with us in condemning the disgrace and shame upon the good fame of our commonwealth, and preventing forever a recurrence of similar legislative dishonor, in which our two republican representatives too frequently participated.

Sixth. We commend the careful, faithful and economical conduct of our present democratic county officials, and we congratulate the people of the county in their wise selection of their public servants, and hereby pledge our united and earnest efforts in securing the success of the ticket this day nominated.

N. B. Spangler was unanimously re-elected county chairman for the ensuing year.

The delegates to State convention was instructed to support C. M. Bower for Judge of the Superior Court.

State of the Crops.

Washington, June 11.—The weather bureau issued the following synopsis of telegraphic crop reports for the week ended to-day:

Upon the whole the week has been more favorable to agriculture than any week of the season since the period from May 1 to May 7. There has, however, been too much rain in portions of the gulf states, where it has been rather cool for cotton, while drought conditions exist over portions of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Northern Ohio, West Virginia and New York.

Details by states are as follows: Pennsylvania—Crops made fair progress, but more rain badly needed in many sections; cut worms and potato bugs very injurious.

AT THE STATE COLLEGE.

The Inter-Class Athletic Contestand Junior Oratoricals.

The thirty-fourth annual commencement exercises of the Pennsylvania State College have been in progress since Sunday. Hundreds of visitors are arriving daily and already the scene is one of beauty and splendor. Every room is engaged at the hotels, while almost every student has several friends "who have just come up to see him."

The weather had been ordered by the faculty after looking over all the samples in stock. This choice was a cloudless sky; served with sunshine, and cool sparkling air that was tempered by the heavenly softness of June time—a combination which proved the correct taste and knowledge and popular wants of the thousands of admirers of the blue and white. The campus, and in fact the entire surroundings looked like a fairy picture, and it is one of the strongest recommendations to State College to show her visitors such an inviting situation.

A visit to the room of President Geo. W. Atherton, found him head over heels in work, there being a continous stream of visitors to see him from morning until night. It is right here in this office of Dr Atherton's that the guidance of the college is planned, and the rapid advancement of Old State within the last five years is the best testimonial that could be secured for the efforts of it's worthy president.

Another busy personage about the college is Prof. Sparks, and to his efforts is largely due the success of the commencement. Almost everything is under his charge and the way in which he manages—without the slightest difficulty, is sufficient to show how well he has those under him trained to do his every command. When the train rolls in at the University Inn, one would think that a perfect bedlum had broken loose. One can scarcely hear himself talk, and the only thing to be done is to stand back and listen. Every train is bringing crowds of mothers, sisters and sweethearts, and the continuous [illegible] smacking of ruby lips reminds one of a constant patter of paper balls against the school window.

One glance around and you can see hundreds of pretty faces and hundreds of handsome gowns. Here you see the new sophomore with a smile on his face that is genuine; on the other hand the graduate smiles, but it is so sickly a smile that it leaves it's impression for many hours. As the senior looks back over his four years of college life and recalls so many pleasant incidents, it is no wonder that he is feeling blue. But he does not remain long this way, for soon he is pounced upon by a happy group of girls who carry him off in screams of delight, congratulating themselves upon having caught an upper class man.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the fifth annual inter-class contests commenced on Beaver Field. A fairly large crowd had gathered in the grand-stand and on the bleacher and often the air was rent with the deep college yell intermingled with the clear, musical voices of the femmine enthusiasts. The track was in the best of condition and Trainer Hoskins was in his element. Before going on the field of battle, the athletic team had it's picture "tooken," and when they lined up they made a perfect picture of health. Prof. J. M. Wolfe was referee of the field sport, and H. M. Beaver announcer. The results of the different events were as follows:

Two mile Bicycle Race—won by Greenland, '96; second, Spreecher, '98. Time 5 min. 40 4 5 sec.

In the evening the Junior Oratorical contest was held in the chapel. A large and appreciative audience was present to cheer their favorite, but without exception, every speaker made a favorable impression on his hearers which will be long remembered. The program for the evening was as follows:

THEY FOUGHT.

But Stories Conflict As to How the Matter Started.

Philadelphia, June 11.—There was a lively set-to last night at Fifteenth and Market streets between Colonel A. Loudon Snowden, ex-minister to Greece and Roumania, and Colonel William M. Runkle, in which an umbrella and a cane played prominent parts to the detriment of the personal appearance of the two gentlemen engaged. The fight was the outcome of an old grievance of Colonel Runkle against Colonel Snowden. Some years ago Colonel Snowden was chief coiner of the mint here and Colonel Runkle was employed there at the same time. Colonel Runkle alleges that Colonel Snowden had him discharged for no cause and this dismissal has remained in his mind ever since.

The story of the fight last night is somewhat conflicting. Colonel Runkle says that he unexpectedly met Colonel Snowden and said to him: "I would like to have a few words with you," but that Colonel Snowden, with a sneering glance, passed him without replying. This angered Runkle and he struck Snowden with his cane. Colonel Snowden vigorously replied with an umbrella and both gentlemen battered each other roughly about the head until the cane and umbrella had become useless, and a policeman then appeared upon the scene and arrested Colonel Runkle. He was given a hearing to-day on the charge of assault and battery. Colonel Snowden testified that he had not seen Runkle for years, and furthermore added, that he had always looked on him as a dog and unfit for a gentleman to associate with. Colonel Snowden testified that he paid no attention to Runkel when he met him last evening and that he did not hear him address him. The first intimation that he had of any trouble was the violent blow on the head from a cane. He turned and as he did so he said Colonel Runkle cried out: "Damn you; I'll kill you now," and he then struck at Runkle with his umbrella. At the conclusion of the hearing Colonel Runkle was bound over in $800 bail for court. At the hearing Colonel Snowden wore a bruise on his forehead and a cut across his ear, and Colonel Runkel had a black eye and a cut ear also.

Negroes Taken into Custody.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 11.—One of the most important arrests in the history of Luzerne county, was made at an early hour this morning by Detective James O'Brien, of the Lehigh Valley railroad. The prisoners taken into custody and sent to jail are Frank Shaffer, George Jordan, James Miller, Sarah Miller and Hestor Bress, all negroes. They are accused of one of the most fiendish crimes committed in this county, the wrecking of the Hungarian shanty on the 28th of October, 1894, on the mountain cut off, a few miles from here.

It will be remembered that sticks of dynamite were used, wires were run into the woods and attached to a battery and when the key was touched an explosion followed, sending a boarding house with all its inmates into the air. Four were killed at the time and eight seriously injured. They were all Hungarians. Shaffer, one of the prisoners arrested, made a clean breast of the whole affair and implicated all the others as being accomplices. He says that the fiendish act was done for the purpose of robbery.

IF MINISTERS of the gospel would preach a little more cleanlinss, honesty and truthfulness into the people and not so much missionary money out of them the world would be none the worse for the change.

FOSTER'S PREDICTIONS.

The Latter Part of June Will Bring the Warmest Weather.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from June 13 to June 17 and the next will reach the Pacific coast about the 18th, cross the west of Rockies country by the close of the 19th, the great central valleys 20th to 22d and the eastern states by the 23d. This storm wave will inaugurate the warm period of the month and the storms will be of more than the usual force.

The storm center will take a northern route and indications of drought will prevail over the middle and southern states, but these drought conditions will be changed extensively before the close of the month and copious showers will fall in many places.

The last eight days of June will also be noted for great extremes of temperature, with probability of light frosts on the northern borders of the United States. Light frosts in the northern parts of the northern states in all the summer months is an expected feature of this remarkable crop season.

A warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about 18th, great central valleys about the 20th and the eastern states on the 22d. A cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 21st, the great central valleys about the 23d and the eastern states by the 25th.

Indications now are that conditions will be favorable to the sowing of fall grain, but calculations are not sufficiently complete to indicate the growing conditions of 1896. I will probably be able to give this information in July of this year As promised, I will publish in the bulletin of June 29 the general characteristics of the coming winter, which will begin with a very cold December.

Cuban Patriots.

Washington, June 11.—The state department is co-operating with the navy department in preventing filibustering expedition from leaving United States to aid the Cuban rebels. In addition to ordering the United States ship Raleigh to guard the southern coast to look out for filibustering craft, Secretary Olney, of the state department, has asked the treasury department to aid in preventing filibusters from shipping arms, men and ammunition from southern ports to the Cuban rebels. The delicacy of the situation makes it difficult for the United States government to act effectually. As pointed out in these dispatches some weeks ago the mere fact that a vessel has arms aboard is not prima facie evidence that those arms are intended for the Cuban rebels and would not be so regarded even if the vessels cleared for Cuban ports. The most indisputable proof must be obtained that the arms are to be delivered to those who will use them against a country friendly to the United States customs officials can interfere. This proof is very difficult to obtain and already the United States has a suit on hand for seizing arms on a vessel which it was charged at that time were intended for the human cause.

Rather Late in Surrendering.

Chicago, June 11.—In pursuance of the decision of the United States supreme court, President Debs and the other officers of the American Railway union surrendered to-day to United States Marshal Arnold. They were taken on the 5 o'clock train this afternoon to Woodstock, (Ill.) jail, to serve out their sentences.

When the train to take the prisoners to Woodstock jail started President Debs had not shown up, although all the other officers of the A. R. U. were on hand and left with the United States marshal to begin their sentences. It is not thought that Debs is trying to evade his sentence, but he had considerable business to transact and probably missed the train.

A Rate War.

The Pennsylvania and Beech Creek Railroads did a nice thing last week for the Firemen from here who attended the Convention at Bellefonte. The distance over the P. R. R., put the fare at $1. for the round trip, The Beech Creek saw them and went below this figure putting the rate at 95 cents for the round trip. The distance over the Beech Creek is 95 miles, hence the fare for the round trip was just one-half a cent a mile, pretty cheap riding.—Clearfield Republican.

Making the Schools Non-Sectarian.

Pennsylvania is not evidently the only State to place on her statute a religious garb bill. At Austin, Texas, the State Department of Education, on appeal from Victoria county, ruled that nuns may not teach in the Public Schools of Texas, and that everything of a sectarian nature must be absolutely eliminated from the Public Schools, Catholic nuns have been conducting free schools in southwest Texas, and this puts an end to it.

CENTENNIAL DAY PROPER.

One Hundred Years Old To-day.—An Enormous Crowd Help Us to Celebrate the Important Event.

Thursday's crowd was big—immense—but it was nothing to the perfect stream of humanity that kept continually pouring into Bellefonte from all directions from early morning until almost noon, until almost noon, until the crowd could only be counted in five figures. The organizations present embraced the military, semi-military and civic. There were Odd fellows, good fellows, bad fellows and funny fellows; Knights of the Golden Eagle, the silver eagle and Bald Eagle; United American Mechanics, and mechanics that were neither united nor American; Patriotic Sons of America, Ireland, England, Germany, Hungary and a good many "sons of guns;" the farmer from away out and away back, the back-woodsman and the country lover and bashful maiden, all were here and surged up and down the streets, hither and yon, to the music of half a dozen bands, the unremitting yell of the street fakir and the Comanche yell of the man who already had too much enthusiasm aboard. Such was the crowd. But there was no business. Nobody pretended to do any business; nobody had any business to try to and it was nobody's business if they didn't. Centennials come but once in a hundred years and when they do come everybody must take a holiday and celebrate the event. And Bellefonte is celebrating it today. Celebrating it in ancient, middle-aged and modern style, and not a person can kick if they don't have enough of jollification before the day is over.

As fast as the various organizations came to town they were taken in charge by the Chief Marshall, the marshalls and aids and formed in their respective divisions for the parade. When all was complete the parade was made up as follows:

The parade marched through all the principal streets and past the reviewing stand on the diamond; after which it disbanded.

A Few Little Ones.

This morning a visitor was found fast asleep tied to the angel of the fountain in front of the court house.

From all reports there were plenty of light-fingered gentry in Bellefhte on Thursday. A large number of people were robbed of their pocketbooks containing sums of money ranging from one to one hundred dollars. If all reports are correct over a thousand dollars changed possession in that way.

Coleville certainly done itself great credit in getting up the Smoketown band and fire company. It was the only comic feature in Thursday's parade and was a good part in to-day's.

Curio Hall has been well patronized, but would have been crowded continually if it had been nearer the heart of the town. And it might have been any way had everybody known what an interesting collection of relics were there displayed.

Dr. Parkhurst, it seems, has entered permanently into the reform business, and having finished his work in New York City now proposes turning his attention to the state. He claims that the field is prolific, and that having created a municipal conscience which will be lasting, he proposes to create the same sentiment in the state as a whole. Dr. Parkhurst will seek a little rest in Europe, however, before entering upon this new work. When he returns there is likely to be a stirring up in the great state, and the outcome will be awaited with interest.

THE FIREMEN'S SPORTS.

What Was Done During the Afternoon and Evening of Thursday.

Between the parade on Thursday and the time set for the races and contests the large crowd in Bellefonte surged hither and yon, from one eating place to another, in almost a vain endeavor to find something to eat, in which they were mostly successful. In the afternoon the contests took place on Howard street and in the diamond. The several events and winners were as follows:

Hose Contest.—Run 500 feet and lay 200 feet of hose, making all connections, was won by Hose No. 2, of Philipsburg. Time 33 seconds—Houtzdale was second in 36 4-5 sec. First prize, $30; second prize $10 lantern.

Tallest Fireman—James Ammerman, of Du Boise.

Best Band—The Volunteer Fire Co. Band of Du Boise, $10.

100 yd Foot Race—Won by Chas Litz of Du Boise. Time 10¾ seconds. Prize, a hat.

Hub Race—Run 100 feet, won by Hope No 2, Philipsburg, in 42 1-5 sec. Prize $15.

Drill—Won by Houtzdale Co. Prize $15.

Largest Company—Won by Hope No 2, Philipsburg. Prize $10.

Best Uniformed Co—Won by Hope No 2 of Philipsburg. Prize $15.

Potatoe Race—Won by W. P. Butler, of Philipsburg in 1 min. 51 sec. He ran 50 yds and gathered six potatoes, one at a time, and won a handsome umbrella.

Steamer Contest—As the Hope Co. of Philipsburg was the only organization to bring an engine, it won the $50 prize very easily. It was too badthat more engines were not in the contest, but the home steamers being debarred the Hopes had an easy time of it.

After the contests the entire crowd done nothing but attempt to keep in a jolly humor and, in this, it was eminently successful. Bands paraded the various streets, playing their liveliest tunes, firemen filled up with enthusiasm and then exploded with full force, but through it all the best of humor prevailed, as we did not see even one attempt at a fight during the entire day.

At eight o'clock in the evening the Wheelmen's Lantern Parade took place. About fifty cyclists of Bellefonte and adjoining towns were out in all the magnificence of highly decorated and much illuminated wheels. The parade formed on Linn street and came south on Allegheny to Bishop, Bishop to Spring, Spring to High, High to the depot and countermarch to Spring, Spring to Howard, Howard to Allegheny and then promicusously all over town.

At eight o'clock in the evening the fire works were put off on jail hill, and they were grand beyond conception. Fully five thousand people viewed the magnificent spectacle. The special trains departed at 10 o'clock and carried the majority of the visitors home, and by eleven the town was fairly well quieted down.

Not For Amusements.

The thing that keeps down the newspaper business is the fact that so many people think that editors pursue their calling purely for amusement. Nothing could be sadder than to see an able journalist eating a contributed poem for want of bread or pie. When a man has a roll of bills he pays everybody before he remembers that he owes the amiable editor; he squares up with the butcher, the baker, the horse blanket maker, and by the time he is through he says to himself the editor wil have to wait a while. A great many editors in this world of sorrow and sin have been compelled to wait a while; they have waited until their whiskers have turned gray, and their bosoms melancholy and their hearts hard; and they are waiting yet, and will wait until the sun grows cold, and the stars are old, and the leaves of the judgment book unfold. And it is all very sad, at least.

Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Committee has selected Harrisburg as the place to hold the next State Convention on August 28th. Harrisburg is always prepared for a convention. It has the railroad facilities, the hotels and the halls, and the warm welcome for people from all parts of the state and, besides, it is the capital city, where all political conventions should be held. To be sure the political conventions will not amount to much this year, but they will enable the boys to get together and talk politics for next year, and lay pipes, and have a nice, pleasant time for a couple of days.

Good Time on a Bicycle.

L. C. Wetzel, who sells the Fowler and Wynnewood bicycles, made time on a Fowler wheel Thursday, one of the champion hot days of last week. He covered the distance between Bellefonte and Tyrone four times, using a Fowler wheel. The distance is 136 miles and he was exactly 12½ hours on the way. Of course, he rested some between trips, and from the start to the final finish was exactly 18½ hours.

Sudden Death.

Joseph George a citizen of Aaronsburg, aged 65 years, died suddenly of heart failure in his stable where he had gone to feed his pigs on Monday evening at about 5 o'clock. Supper being ready and failing to come, his step-son, J. P. Kerstetter, went to look for him and found him lying in the stable unconscious, and at the same time expired. He was at once carried to the house and a doctor summoned but life was extinct. He was a pensioner of the late war, having served for 100 days with a company from Juniata county in the 151st P. V. He came to these parts immediately after the war and first settled in the mountains on the Martin tract, afterwards coming to town. He was twice married, his first wife having died he married the widow Kerstetter who with her sons John and Peter survive the old gentleman.

NEW DISCOVERY.

Among the many discoveries of the present age, none rank higher than the new metal silvereen, which owing to its great durability and cheapness is bound to take he place of silver in the manufacture of fine tableware.

Silvereen is a beautiful white metal, will not tarnish or rust, and all goods made from it are warranted.

We want every one to have a chance to compare silvereen with silver, so for the next sixty days we are going to give away one half dozen Crown Silver Tea Spoons Free, to every person who will send for one of our Terry's Silvereen sets, containing six Tea Spoons, one Sugar Shell, one Butter Knife. If at any time the Silvereen goods do not prove satisfactory, return them and your money will be refunded. Remember we give you the Silver Spoons.

Price of Silvereen set, $2.00. 17-2y.

Patriot: The conference committee having in charge the judicial apportionment bill has about agreed on a measure. The report will make Greene and Jefferson counties separate districts. Westmoreland and Washington counties are to be given additional judges. The extra court of three judges for Philadelphia has been knocked out. The one memorial in equatorial Africa in which the whole civilized world has interest is pictured in The Century for May. This is the tree beneath which is buried the heart of Dr. Livingtone, and upon the trunk of which a record was rudely chiseled by one of the great missionary's followers. The photographs which is reproduced was made by Mr. E. J. Glav, in the course of an exploration undertaken for the The Century magazine. The tree was found near a deserted village on the South shore of Lake Bangweolo, and it towers far above all the foliage. The discovery of the exact location of this shrine is of particular interest in view of the failure of previous efforts to locate it. Mr. Glave writes that Mrs. Bruce—the daughter of Livingstone—and her husband sent out a tablet commemorative of the explorer's death, which the Belgian officers to whom it was consigned put up about eight miles from the tree. Eighteen months before Mr. Glave's visit, the tablet was carried off by the thief of a slave caravan.

FIREMEN IN SESSION.

They Hold Their Convention Wednesday and Parade To-day.

On Tuesday evening the first consignment of firemen delegates arrived in Bellefonte and Wednesday morning the incoming trains brought an additional large number. Wednesday afternoon the firemen assembled in convention in the courthouse and, because all the delegates were not present—some having missed the train—and after considerable quibbling over the admission on the floor of a number of delegates who had not paid their annual dues the required three days in advance of the convention, the body adjourned to meet at 7 o'clock in the evening.

At the appointed hour the convention was called to order by Martin Lewis, of Philipsburg, who had been elected chairman, and Frank Orner, of DuBois, secretary, read the minutes and his report as far as it was possible to make it out.

In the afternoon Burgess W. E. Gray made the address of welcome to the firemen, which was a very neat and well worded speech. It was responded to by Mr. Gilbert Greenburg, of Huntingdon. In the evening, after the transaction of the regular routine business of the convention, that body proceeded to vote on the place of meeting next year and Clearfield was unanimously chosen. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows :

President—W. L. Johnston, DuBois.

First vice president—J. C. Smith, Clearfield.

Second vice president—Frank Weber, Philipsburg.

Secretary—W. A. Moore, Curwensville.

Treasurer—Frank C. Waltz, Bellefonte.

A few brief addresses were made on the good and growth of the association of volunteer firemen for the central district of Pennsylvania, and then the convention adjourned.

THE PARADE TODAY.

Thurspay morning delegations of firemen began to arrive, and crowds of visitors surged into the town until the mass of humanity present count up thousands. Fire companies in handsome uniforms, bands of music playing their liveliest tunes, all intermingled with the stentorian voice of the peanut vender and the badge dispenser, made up a scene that stirred all the patriotism with which man might be imbued. The companies as soon as they arrived were formed into line of parade and promptly at the appointed hour the same moved up High street in the following order :

The Mattern Reunion.

Arrangements for the Mattern family reunion at Warriorsmark on Thursday of next week, June 13, are now about completed. The local committee for the arrangement of details looking to the comfort and pleasure of the picnicers in the commodious Funk grove adjoining the historic village of Warriorsmark report that they are ready for the reception of any number that may assemble there on that day. Just here it may be well to state that persons who are not connected in any way with the Mattern family are cordially invited to attend the basket picnic and reunion. There will be room enough for all, and the Mattern people will be glad to have their friends meet with them on this occasion.

In addition to the regular trains running over the Tyrone and Lewisburg railroad two special trains will be run on the 13th of June. The first one will leave Tyrone at 7 o'clock in the morning, arriving at Warriorsmark at 7.25 and at Scotia at 8.05 Leaving Scotia at 8.10 the same train wil arrive at Warriorsmark at 8.50 and Tyrone at 9.15. The second train will leave Tyrone at 5.30 in the afternoon, at Warriorsmark at 5.55, and arrive at Scotia at 7 o'clock. Warriorsmark at 7.40, arriving at Tyrone at 8.05. These trains will stop at all stations. Excursion tickets to the picnic will be sold at the various staions at the rate of two cents a mile.

At 9.15 o'clock in the morning a meeting will be held in the grove at which A. J. Mattern will be master of ceremonies. At this meeting the band will play, a choir will sing, a prayer will be made, H. W. Mattern will deliver an address of welcome and Rev. J. A. Mattern will respond and Hon. J. W. Mattern will deliver an historical address. Exa Mattern of Pittsburg and J. R. Mattern of Buffalo run will recite. The afternoon will be spent socially and perhaps a number of impromptu addresses will be delivered.

During the day the historical committee will perfect as far as possible work of preparing a complete record of the Mattern family in this country. A permanent organization of the family will likely be effected and arrangements for meetings in the future will in all probability be made also.

Fourth of July.

A celebration will be held on the above date at Hecla Park, under the direction of the Undine Fire Co., of Bellefonte. A band contest will be one of the principal features. A cash prize of $50 will be given the best band, each band to select its own piece of music, and not less than six bands to enter. A circular, giving full particulars, will be mailed to every band in the county. All kinds of amusements, dancing, steamer contest, fireworks, good dinner and supper will make up the programme. The Central R. R. will run special trains, and excursion tickets can be had at low rates. Further particulars next week.

The County Bridge Bill.

The amended bridge bill as signed by Gov. Hastings will relieve the counties of all anxiety as to the destruction of county bridges by fire, flood or other calamity. When a county bridge is destroyed by any calamity the state authorities will rebuild the structure at the state's expense. A bridge that is rendered unfit for use by reason of long standing or wear and tear will be rebuilt at the expense of the county. The county commissioners retain control of the bridges and make all other necessary repairs the same as heretofore.

Two Important Bills Killed.

Harrisburg, June 5.—The senate committee on education this morning killed two very important bills—The South bill, providing for the distribution of the school fund, and the bill to give women school teachers the same salary as men when they do the same work.

Maladministration in New Jersey.

The committee of the New Jersey Senate that has been inquiring into the scandalous abuses, legislative, judicial and executive, which have led to a political revolution in the State during the past two years, have made a voluminous report. Though strongly tinged with partisanship, it is in the main an unanswerable record of extravagance in expenditures, fraud in contracts, partisan alliances with gamblers and ballot law violators—the collusion extending to the Board of Pardons, who pardoned ballot thieves by the score and all the leading race track gamblers into the bargain.

The most startling feature of the committee's arraignment, and one which cannot be successfully refused, is that relating to the subversion of traditional Jersey justice as decreed by the courts through the intervention of the Pardon Board, the most flagrant examples cited being the pardon in one day of thirty-two Hudson county election officials whose conviction of violation of the election laws had been sustained by the court of last resort. Scarcely less flagrant was the pardon of the chief convicted race track gamblers, showing that the executive failed in a most unaccountable manner to sustain the courts in the enforcement of the law.

The recommendations of the committee in the form of remedial legislation are doubtless worthy of the careful consideration of the Legislature of the State and it is possible that the adoption of the proposed measures may do something to prevent a repetition of the shameful scandals laid bare in the committee's report. The best legislation can be rendered valueless, however, if the sworn officers of the law nullify the decress of the law for partisan or personal reasons, and the surest remedy for the New Jersey scandals is for the people to repudiate every unworthy official at the polls and elect a complete set of officials from Governor down who will both obey and enforce instead of nullifying the laws.

Critical Turkish Situation.

In refusing the reforms asked for in Armenia the Porte shows the insincerity of its pretensions of sympathy with the unfortunates who have been murdered and plundered in that territory. The Turk never had any love for the Armenia Christian and it has been his policy to extort ruinous taxation, and allow his soldiers and the Kurds to murder and rob all who complain and even those who go on uncomplaining in the worship of God according to a Christian conscience.

It is the duty of the European powers to enforce obedience to their request. It is such a question of humanity and in such a case even the United States is warranted in sending armed forces to assist in compelling the Turk to give the Armenians fair treatment. The Turkish Government is a travesty on government, though it is not altogether surprising to find a young man with Emperor Williams's admiration for imperialism supporting the Sultan in the exercise of his brutal autocracy.

Even with Germany promising support to Turkey there should be no hesitation on the part of the powers. They have not asked to have any favors granted. Their request has been merely that certain subjects of the Porte should be treated like human beings and allowed to live like men. That respectful request having been denied they are justified in demanding observance and enforcing obedience to the demand.

A Fish Story.

The following fish story is somewhat out of the usual run, but it need not take second place for anything ever put in print :

"Starrucca, a little village on the Erie Railway, between Deposit and Susquehanna is interested in the discovery made yesterday of a subterranean-cavern. Some quarrymen, in removing a layer of flag stones, found the cavern, through which ran a stream of water of greenish hue containing speckled green fishes. The fishes are without eyes and propel themselves by their tail. They invariably swim backward and have a motion not unlike that of a fresh water crab. Several have been sent to the Pennsylvania Fish Commissioners as curiosities. The quarry was located in a bed of limestone rock in an unfrequented place. When the layer had been removed it was further observed that the internal walls of the cavern were lined with translucent stalactites and stalagmites imperfectly formed.

Two Deaths.

On Monday of last week, two deaths occurred at Rebersburg. Mrs. Elias Stover, an aged lady died in the forenoon. In the evening of the same day Mrs. Levina Leitzell, the relict of Aaron Leitzell, who died ust four weeks ago followed her husband to the realms beyond. Her age was 75 years.

ONE of the perfectly unobjectionable measure which will fail if the House adheres to its calendar as revised on Monday is the bill ceding jurisdiction to the United States over certain public roads within the National Park at Gettysburg. Pennsylvania ought not to be laggard in doing its part in making a grand national park of Gettysburg. The commission has authority to take private property by condemnation, but the roads within the park are another matter, and the State ought to surrender its jurisdiction so that there will be no division of authority or responsibility in the management of the park.

Unusual Forest Fires.

Forest fires in the spring months before the foliage has fairly started, and in the month of August, when the burning sun has parched everything green and dried up the springs and smaller water courses are of common occurrence, but forest fires, in early June, with the trees in full leaf, such as have been destroying oil wells, lumber mills and small hamlets in Elk and McKean counties in the past few days, are of rare occurrence, and can only be possible in periods of abnormally dry weather. A destructive fire on the hillsides of the Wissahickon, which nearly correspond in general forest condition with much of the fire ravaged section in the Northwest, would be impossible at this time.

There are some conditions in the fire-swept sections conducing to the starting of forest fires at any season of this year, such as the narrow gauge railways which thread its wooded ravines, the frequent oil wells, each surrounded with an oil saturated plot, and the numerous steam saw-mills with their piles of burning refuse. Sparks from locomotives or burning slab piles or a gas explosion in the boiler house of an oil property can furnish the origin of any number of forest fires if the forests are in condition to burn. Once started, a dry scorching wind may mock the puny efforts of the sparse population to check the course of the flames.

The extent of the damage caused by these untimely and unexpected forest fires cannot be fully known as yet, but there is little doubt that there will be suffering and destitution in individual cases families rendered homeless and men ordinarily prosperous made bankrupt. Help should be promptly extended to those who are deprived of home and means of support, a class which fortunately is not likely to be numerous. At worst the fires cannot rage long and the busy summer season is at hand, when those who lack employment will be few and far between.

THE Territory of Utah is preparing for Statehood and will vote on the question next November. This has been a matter at issue the past forty years. Congress granted the enabling act early in 1894 and the delegates to the Constitutional convention were elected last November. The convention assembled March 7 last, and on May 8 completed the work before it, adopting the Constitution by a unanimous vote of the delegates present, only 7 of the 106 being absent. This convention was in session sixty-six days and the Constitution, which covers about 18,000 words is incorporated in twenty seven chapters. Congress appropriated $30,000 to meet the expenses of the convention, and this has been exceed by almost $9,500, a deficit for the next Congress to meet. Utah, by the census of 1890, has a population of 207,[illegible]

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

From our Regular Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 8, 1895.

During the past week there has been a slight slackening of pace in the Stock Market. Several causes have contributed to the abatement of activity. During the first half of the week, considerable apprehension was felt that the protracted extraordinary heat might work serious injury to the wheat crop; later, however, these fears were relieved by more encouraging reports from some important sections, and by an absence of discouraging news respecting the corn crop. Doubts as to the dividends of some of the Granger roads had also a tendency to check buying; and the tardiness in bringing the bankrupt roads towards a settlement of their finances has had a like effect. London influences also have not been helpful. Monday was a bank holiday; then came a check to the speculative interest from Turkey's unexpected refusal to accept the demand of the Powers intervening for the adjustment of Armenian affairs; and added to these influences have been negotiations looking to the placing of large loans in behalf of China, which are calculated to check the current extraordinary revival of demand for American investments. And yet it is an assuring symptom that for the $5,000,000 of Allegheny bonds offered simultaneously in London and New York, the foreign offers aggregated $43,000,000, while the bids in this city amounted to $5,000,000. These adverse influences have naturally encouraged the professional "bears," and there has been some irregular yielding in prices; but the market has lost none of its underlying strength and stands ready to respond to new influences of a favorable character. The speculative season, however, is nearing a stage when operators are apt to reduce their lines or close their accounts for Summer absences. There is also some disposition to defer operations until the outcome of the harvest and the prospects of the cotton crop are more clearly foreshadowed. This therefore is scarcely a time for expecting any great revival of activity. Nevertheless, there seems to be little probability that these preparations for the season of recreation will be attended by any important sagging of prices. Holders are sanguine about the future, and hope for higher prices after due relaxation and when the improved national conditions have had two or three months of further development; and they are therefore in no mood to accept lower prices as a consequence of lightening their load. They also see a prospect of improved railroad earnings and of settlements of bankrupt roads during the Summer, calculated to maintain prices should they choose to carry their stocks, which their large speculative profits would well enable them to do.

The aspect of affairs in Europe is becoming steadily more assuring. The revival of business which has set it on this side the Atlantic has its counterpart among the commercial nations on the other side. The only cloud that overhangs the horizon, is a possible reaction in the mass of African mining stocks that have been so largely inflated. There appears to be some uncertainty, however, as to how far the productiveness of these properties may approximately justify the immense advance upon the value at which they were originally marketed. A large amount of the stocks have been transferred from London to Paris, and so far any shock that might come from them would be further removed from any effect upon American securities. This is an element that may be properly watched, and yet it probably portends no immediate disturbance.

It is very clear from the eagerness with which new issues are taken in England, Germany and Holland, as well as on this market that, during the last five years of business reaction, a vast amount of capital has been held back from investment until the times looked more propitious. The readiness with which new investments are now taken is plain evidence of a broad and positive revival of credit. That recovery means a reinforcement of all the forces of industry and enterprise and the beginning of another decade of universal prosperity. Reinforced, as that revival will be, by the most advanced methods of production, this coming ten years may be expected to surpass everything in the world's experience in the way of industrial progress and commercial expansion. Enterprising men will not stand still and dubiously watch this rising wave of prosperity. Sagacious men will see in it the beginnings of a tide that leads on to fortune and submit themselves to its current.

It is much to be hoped that European politics are drifting towards more pacific conditions. All the nations appear to have a wholesome dread of war, the more so because their mutual interests have become so closely interwoven that no two can run into conflict without danger of the melee becoming general. It is by no means improbable that Japan's victory may prove to be the occasion of an awakening to commerce and development of the three hundred millions of dormant Chinese. The latest indications justify the hope that the new situation in the East may be determined by amicable means, There are even significant intimations that the division of foreign control in Asia may be determined by a friendly understanding between Great Britain and Russia, which would at least be conducive to the opening of Eastern Asia to free commerce for the world. This outlook has its value as affording a groundwork confidence for the future larger employments of capital. For the immediate future, however, it is not unlikely that there may be a partial abatement of the late extraordinary activity in investments.

HENRY CLEWS.

DIDN'T SHOOT TO KILL.

And Collins Says He Was Attacked by the Students.

Trenton, N. J., June 10.—John Collins, the colored man arrested for shooting Garrett Cochrane and Frederick Ohl, Princeton students, on Saturday, made a statement in jail this morning. He says that he was attacked by the students, and that they were striking him in a hallway when he fired. He also claims that he had no intention of killing them, and only fired to scare them. Downs, the other colored man arrested, says he was in the saloon and did not see the shooting.

The condition of the two students is a matter of great interest in Princeton today. While their chances of recovery have improved, and though each passed a good night, there is still great anxiety for them. The commencement exercises go on as usual.

There is great feeling against the negroes of the town. The colored people are not allowed on the campus. There is much talk of boycotting the negroes and giving them no employment as waiters, etc. It is not probable that the boycott will be carried out very effectively, as there are large numbers of negroes employed in various capacities about the college.

Two Generations Too Old.

BELLEFONTE, PA., June 11, '95.

EDITOR OF DAILY NEWS:

The reporter who furnished to the Philadelphia Times the excellent account of the Centennial celebration of the founding of our town has fallen into an error, which for historical reasons should be corrected. It was the father of Ex-Governor Curtin (Roland Curtin) instead of his "great-grandfather," who built the first charcoal furnace in this county. Roland Curtin was a native of Ireland, was a young man in Paris at the time of the French Revolution, having espoused the cause of the Revolutionists he was sentenced to the guilotine, and escaped execution by accident. When the Revolutionists under Robespiere opened the Bastile, Roland Curtin's head was white as wool, having changed color during the single night of awful apprehension. He then fled from Paris, and arrived in New York city as a "Redemptioner," having sold himself to the Captain of the vessel for his passage, for whom he was required to labor until he redeemed himself. He proved to be a man of sterling worth, and died lamented by a large community in which for so many years he had been a benefactor.* The only "Revolutionary" blood of which the Ex-Governor could boast was that of the heroic French Revolutionists. Let the History of great men be true.

VERITAS.

Ask Your Druggist for It.

Such strong proofs of the cures made by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy have been brought to public notice through newspaper investigations that is now the standard medicine for the diseases for which it is prepared.

Dr. G. H. Ingraham, of Amsterdam, N. Y., states where the prescriptions used in a case of kidney disease and gravel utterly failed, he prescribed Dr. Kennedy's Favorite remedy, and it cured the patient.

Dr. Wm. Smith, of Jewett's Heights, N. Y., prescribed Favorite Remedy for Mrs. Casper Brooks, of Athens, N. Y., who was suffering from kidney disease and ulceration of the stomach; after the second day, steady improvement was noted, and final permanent recovery.

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy acts directly upon the kidneys, liver and blood, in cases of nervousness, dyspepsia, rhumatism and Bright's disease; it has made most pronounced cures, after all other treatments have failed. 6-13-1t

How to Keep Lemons Fresh.

It is not generally known that lemons may be easily and almost indefinitely preserved under glass. Some, one year, were purchased on the 4th of July, and, by way of experiment, each one was put under an inverted goblet. Thus kept from the air they were finally removed on Christmas day in perfect condition and as juicy as ever.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, June 10, 1895.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

The one thing not surprising about Mr Cleveland's selection of Mr. Judson Harmon, of Ohio, to be Attorney-Gen. in place of Mr. Olney, who has been made Secretary of State, is that Mr. Harmon is a corporation lawyer. Mr. Cleveland has made considerable money as a corporation lawyer himself, and he doubtless expects to resume that occupation after March 4th, 1897, which accounts, in a measure, for partiality for corporation lawyers. It is understood that one of Mr. Cleveland's objects in taking Mr. Harmon into the cabinet is the hope of placating Senator Brice, who has not been friendly towards the administration since the tariff fight in the Senate.

The Cuckoo democrats praise the new appointments, but ex Representative Conn, of Indiana, an anti-Cleveland democrat, voiced the opinion of many democrats when he said of them: "Both appointments are characteristic of the President. One is the promotion of the most unpopular man in the cabinet, and the other the exaltation of a comparatively obscure attorney to one of the most important offices in the country. It goes without saying that there will be no change in the conduct of either the State Department or the Attorney-General's office. Possibly, in the absence of the President, the individuality of Mr. Olney may make itself manifest, as did that of Secretary Gresham in the Allianca affair, while the President was duck hunting. But it may be expected that trusts will thrive and jingoes will howl without in the least disturbing the complaceney of the administration, which, of course, distinctly and exclusively means President Cleveland." After all the personality of the cabinet means nothing, as they are all merely clerks to carry out Mr. Cleveland's orders.

The big democrats are trying to make the public realize that ex-Secretary Whitney is playing his cards, not as an assistant to Mr. Cleveland, but as an independent candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. Even Senator Smith of New Jersey, who was Senator Gorman's lieutenant in all the fights made upon the administration policy during the last session of Congress by the Gorman-Brice combination, seems to be in the deal. At any rate he has taken occasion, while in Washington, to state very positively that Whitney was out for the nomination; also to give Whitney a lot of "taffy." Some people are of the opinion that the prominent anti-Cleveland democrats are going to make use of Whitney to beat Mr. Cleveland at his own game, and that having bound him by a promise, which he though he was perfectly safe in making, to support Whitney's candidacy, that they are now going to work with the idea of nominating Whitney on the first ballot.

Ex-Congressman Cadmus, of New Jersey, doesn't take a rosy view of the prospect of the democratic party in his state, although he was a democratic member of the last congress, and a candidate for re-election. Mr. Cadmus is a silk manufacturer and a believer in protection. He says: "Politically the state is very quiet, although there will be an election for governor this fall. I have no doubt of the success of the republican ticket, and the chances are that the democratic nominations will be begging."

The Kentucky Republicans are confident of their ability to elect their candidate for governor, and hopeful that they will elect a majority of the legislature, which would mean a republican successor to Senator Blackburn. They have written to Washington for outside speakers. "We don't wan't any outside speakers," writes one of them," or one dollar contributed by anybody not residing in the state. We have got the democratic party split and we are going to win, the governorship certain, and probably the legislature." The administration is determined that Blackburn shall not be returned to the Senate, if it can possibly prevent it. Secretary Carlisle when he returns to Kentucky this week will give the fourth-class postmasters and the army of internal revenue men connected with the big distillieries to choose between fighting Blackburn and the loss of their positions. It will not be surprising if Secretary Carlisle becomes an open candidate for the Senate before the campaign closes. He doesn't care particularly about returning to the Senate, because he expects to go on the bench before this administration retires, but he wants to beat Blackburn, and if he thinks becoming a candidate necessary to do it will not hesitate.

Good health

And a good appetite go hand in hand. With the loss of appetite, the system cannot long sustain itself. Thus the fortifications of good health are broken down and the system is liable to attacks of disease. It is in such cases that the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are clearly shown. Thousands who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla testify to its great merits as a purifier of the blood, it powers to restore and sharpen the appetite and promote a healthy action of the digestive organs. Thus it is, not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story and constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Why not take Hood's Sarsaparilla now? 6-13-1t

That "March of Progress."

The march of progress, which was one of the pleasing and essential features in Friday's parade, was planned and gotten up entirely according to the idea and by the labors of the Chief Marshall, Dr. H. K. Hoy, and whatever of amusement and interest it afforded the crowds everywhere, they can thank him for. The leading character's history dates back to the age of Mound Builders, and was represented by one of them as the original man of Bellefonte. Then came the representation of the Age of Bronze by a man of the color. The Nubian, the hated Mohamedan, the original American Indian, as well as Chief Logan on horse back, with the unconquerable and ever persistent Chinaman and other nationalities—all were represented. The American Colonel of 1842 was in his glory in the line. The float representing the trick by which the county seat was located here, was a very amusing as well as a true historical feature An old man leading an antiquated mule, dragging the old boat laden with household belongings and bearing the inscription "Milesburg, you are not in it; one hundred years ago this old mule reached the head of navigation and planted the county seat right here;" nothing could have been more appropriate. Then we must allude to the float "The wheels of time," represented by six young ladies; one, dressed in the colors and costume of 100 years ago, at the spinning wheel, and one in bloomers mounted upon a bicycle, the wheel of the present day; the other young ladies, representing the four corners of the earth. Too much cannot be said for our citizens who contributed to the success of the industrial exhibit. The NEWS, interested as it was in the success of the centennial, thanks one and all who in any manner contributed towards marking the century stone in our history.

Planting and Burning.

The five very dry days beginning with and succeeding Decoration Day created a condition in many of our wooded regions favorable to forest fires. On Tuesday the papers containe accounts of forest fires in Elk and Mc Kean counties in this State in which the immediate loss amounts to several millions of dollars in value, while the ultimate loss through the denudation of the hill sides is incalculable.

On April 27 despatches were published from many different points in the State reciting the fact that Arbor Day had been observed there the day before and that many saplings had been planted by the school children and others for the reforesting and adornment of their neighborhoods. This planting was not as general as it should have been. The date assigned was rather late for successful tree planting, but in many counties of the State no interest was taken in the day at all. At the same time that a few hopeful souls were endeavoring to do something, however little, toward restoring the forests of the State, forest fires elsewhere were destroying rapidly a thousand fold more trees than will be planted in many Arbor Days. This awful destruction of square miles of valuable standing timber by a single fire running unchecked for days after a drought is the discouraging fact in the forestry question. Of what avail is it to attempt to restore before we cease to destroy.

These forest fires all have their origin in the carelessness, selfishness or viciousness of men. They can be checked and to a large extent prevented by watchfulness and the imposition of severe penalties on those who cause them. The fire warden's bill aimed to accomplish this, and though it involved no very great expense it, with all the other forestry bills has failed. The Legislature did much to redeem itself in this regard by the passing of a bill establishing a Department of Agriculture, in which is securely anchored a Bureau of Forestry. The influence of this Bureau will be constant and permanent. It will teach the people of Pennsylvania to put a juster valuation on the forest wealth, to make judicious selections of trees for planting and plant them everywhere, line the road sides and the hill sides and cover the earth's nakedness, unless the space is needed for some more urgent use. When planted they must be cared for, and where naturehas planted them with liberal hand they need even greater care and watchfulness to prevent their destruction by fire.

The failure of the fire wardens bill is a great misfortune. It would be an unrelieved calamity did we not have a Bureau of forestry to keep attention fixed on th is great need and give assurance that it will be supplied hereafter.

A NEW YORK preacher used this language in a sermon on the income tax decision; "Think of the spectacle of our great jurists and legal thinkers degrading the high intellectual gifts of God to the service of Mammon. The courtesan of the street who sells herself for the price of sin is a vestal virgin compared to the men who for a price set their great altilities to perpetuate the poverty of the poor and relieve the riches of the rich of a righteous return to the government which protects them."

The Bellefonte Celebration.

Bellefonte is now celebrating the centennial anniversary of the founding of that beautiful mountain town, and there is no inland city of the State with even treble or quadruple the population of Bellefonte, that has so distinguished a record for its people to commemorate.

Had he late Governor Curtin lived one month longer, the comparatively small mountain town of Bellefonte would have had among its citizens two Ex-Governors and the Governor-elect of the State. With Curtin gone to join the majority beyond, Bellefonte has the present Governor and an ex-Governor, a distinction that no other city, town or county in the State can claim. In addition to the three Governors Bellefonte has furnished within the memory of the present generation, Gen. James Irvin of the same town was the Whig candidate for Governor in 1847, and the elder Gregg figures in the returns as an unsuccessful candidate for Governor in the earlier history of the State.

Not only is Bellefonte justly celebrated for the number of Governors it has furnished, but the immediate neighborhood of Bellefonte has furnished three addition al Governors—Bigler, of Clearfield; Packer, of Williamsport, and Pollock, of Milton, and Clearfield has furnished two United States Senators. In addition to the Governors furnished by Bellefonte, that mountain town has given the country a United States Senator and two distinguished Judges of the Supreme Court of the State.

While Bellefonte will always be remembered with pride by its people wherever they may wander in the journey of life, for the unusual number of its sons who have filled high State and national positions, the mountain town will always be freshest in memories of its citizens as the birth place and resting place of Andrew G. Curtin. He was a type of the heroic race of the people of that region before the Revolution, who transported the superior iron then manufactured there by pack mules to the Pittsburg markets, and whose first achievements were the erection of the school houses and the church. The people of Bellefonte evidently appreciate the many things they have to be thankful for, as the magnificent celebration of yesterday and to-day abundantly testifies.—Times.

The Ohio Coal Rate.

The fight over miners' wages is now transferred to the Eastern Ohio district. The operators there have given notice of a reduction to 51 cents, claiming the benefit of the reduction in the general Ohio rate incident to the establishment of the 60 cent rate in the Pittsburg district. The miners, however, are protesting against the action and are holding meetings at which the votes so far are strongly against accepting the reduction.

It must be said that the miners of that section have a good deal of foundation for their protest. The coal which they mine does not lie in as thick veins as the Hocking Valley coal, and is for that reason not entitled to the Hocking Valley rate. It is sold in the lake markets for Pittsburg coal, at the same prices as Pittsburg coal, and for nearly all practical purposes it is Pittsburg coal. For that reason the rate for mining should be the same a in the Pittsburg district. Finally any plea that the employers cannot afford to pay as much wages as in the Pittsburg district is overset by the fact that they have a decided advantage in railway rates, and so far as that is concerned can really afford to pay more wages.

One of the pivitol troubles in the coal business is this claim of special advantages for a district that is in all else than the payment of wages rates its output as Pittsburg coal. In fairness and equity it ought to pay the Pittsburg rate of 60 cents for mining under usual conditions, and 55 cents for mining if company stores are abolished and full weights allowed.

Building an Electric Wagon.

A Lock Haven inventor is now at work constructing a wagon, the motive power of which is to be electricity. A reporter of the Express was permitted to see the parts of the vehicle which have been completed. The inventor explained that he intends to have his wagon ready to make a trip to Williamsport on the morning of July 4th, and the speed will be from one to 20 miles per hour, according to the condition of the roads. The power will be furnished by storage battery cells stored under the seats, which run lengthwise of the vehicle like that of an omnibus. There will be 8 cells, 4 in each side. These will have a capacity to run the wagon 15 days of 19 hours each, and will re-charge themselves from a generator of 10 sixteen candle power lights and a motor.

The motive power will be 3 hours, geared to equal 6 horse power.

The vehicle when completed will weigh 1,600 pounds and will carry 3,000 pounds.

The length of the body of the wagon will be 14 feet; width 3 feet, 7 inches. The wheels will have pneumatic tires.

The inventor expects to carry a dozen or more passengers to Williamsport on the morning of July 4th.—L. H. Express.

A Good Reason.

It is by no means an uncommon thing to see on the closed doors of a shop the announcement that the circumstance is in consequence of the death of the proprietor or a member of the firm.

It was left for a German who kept a cobbler's shop in a western town to reverse the order of things. On the occasion of his daugter's marriage a large piece of paper was tacked on the barred door. Across the paper straggled these words:

"This Store is closed on Account of some Fun in the Family."

I had about given up all hopes of ever getting better when Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me and I believe it my duty to let other sufferers know the benefit I derived from it. I Could Not Sleep at night, was without appetite, and what little I did eat I was unable to keep on my stomach. After taking the first bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which seemed to do me some good, I tried a second and continued to feel better. I got up feeling

TUESDAY AT THE COLLEGE.

It Was the Big Day—500 Partook of the Alumni Dinner.

Another day of the Commencement exercises at State College has passed and the gaities still continue. It seemed as if not another person could be accommodated on Monday but every train brings hundreds of visitors daily to the College and now it is almost impossible to move around without difficulty. Pretty girls in handsome gowns are there by the hundreds and their merry chatter reminds one of a commencement at a ladies seminary; and yet were it not for the fair visitors the crowd would lack much in enthusiasm and beauty. Tuesday will always be remembered as a red-letter day at Old State, as perhaps not for many years have there been so many prominent personages there at once. The halls of the College building were jammed with people from morning until night, and to get from one end of the hall to the other, it was necessary to shut your eyes and push, regardless of people's feelings—especially about the feet. But it was an unusually good natured crowd and everybody seemed to be having a good time—unless it were some freshman who had his fair companion stolen by a senior.

At 12 o'clock the bugle sounded the assembly, and the people immediately formed into a line and marched to the armory where the Alumni Dinner was served. Plates for 500 were laid, and everything was so arranged by Caterer Achenbach that although the crowd was large, everybody was taken care of. The Cadet sergeants, thirty-two in number, wearing long white aprons and white duck trousers, acted as waiters, and the way they served the different courses reflected great credit upon the management. After everybody had been seated, Rev. White, of Milroy, invoked the divine blessing, after which General James A. Beaver ordered each one to "go ahead and eat." For an hour and a half, the hungry people destroyed turkey, etc. Then Gov. Beaver called order, and in a few words reviewed the past work of the college, commented on the present, and predicted a glorious success in the future. Other after-dinner speeches were made by Gen. James W. Latta, of Philadelphia; Hon. C. W. Stone, of Warren; Hon. J. B. Robinson, of Media; Prof. Alfred C. Smith, of Chicago; Judge Greer, of Butler; Judge Cyrus Gordon, of Clearfield; Hon. Harry Curtin and others. The trend of the speakers remarks was the general satisfaction with the appropriation which has just been passed by the Legislature. At the close of his remarks, each speaker was loudly applauded. During the dinner music was furnished by Stopper & Fick's orchestra, of Williamsport.

After the dinner, a meeting of the delegates to elect trustees was held. At this meeting the salary of Dr. Atherton was increased $1,000. The trustees re-elected were: Ex-Senator Hood, of Indiana; Andrew Carnegie, Pittsburg; Judge H. B. White, Washington; J. A. Herr, Clinton. Judge Cyrus Gordon was elected a trustee by the Alumni. The exhibition drill of the college cadets was the next interesting feature, and although a slight rain fell for a few moments, the cadets marched out and commenced to drill. They were commanded by Lieut. McCaskey U. S. A., assisted by Cadet Major Kiefer. The college soldiers were dressed in blue sack coats and white duck trousers and as they marched on the green campus, they made a very pretty sight. The exhibition dril was appreciated by the thousands of spectators, as their generous applause indicated, and it reflected great credit upon Lieut. McCaskey.

In the evening the students were addressed by Congressman J. B. Robinson, who spoke on "The Forces that Make for Civilization." The address from beginning to end was an example of brilliant oratory. Mr. Robinson dwelt chiefly on the wonderful advancement all colleges have made in the past fifty years and spoke highly of the liberality of the people in supporting colleges, hospitals, etc.

NOTES.

Hon. Alexander McDowell, of Washington, President of the State Agricultural Society, was in attendance at Tuesday's exercises. He was accompanied by Treasurer Rutherford, of Dauphin county.

Fifty-nine freshmen enter sophomore next term.

Lieut. McCaskey will remain another year, much to the satisfaction of all.

Harry J. Patterson, chemist of the Experimental Station at Maryland, has been elected Prof. of Agriculture, at State College, to succeed Prof. Watres.

In the exhibition drill the prize was awarded to Co. D., for excellency in drilling.

THE failure of the appropriation for the expenses of the Senate committee to investigate the public schools of the State will occasion very little regret outside of the committee membership. Why there should be this investigation and what special qualifications the committee had for it no one has undertaken to explain. There are grave defects in our public school system, especially in the country districts, but they are not far to seek. Successive reports of the Superintendent of Public Instruction set them forth. Divided control here in Philadelphia, poorly paid and poorly qualified teachers and a too short school year elsewhere are among the gravest defects. We do not believe that a $15,000 junketing committee would do much to cure this.

—Every article of food should be kept covered until it appears on the table. Milk and butter should be kept in air tight covered vessels. They take up every odor flying in the air, and are positively harmful to the stomach after standing uncovered for an hour or two. Not only odors, but the animalcule that fill the air are attracted to milk and butter. Uncovered jelly is a menace to family health, yet in two-thirds of the pantries in the country will be found half used dishes of jelly standing uncovered.

—The bill passed by the legislature to prohibit the catching of black bass under nine inches, is a wise measure. Under the old law the minimum size was six inches, but as the black bass does not begin to spawn until it is three years old and considerably larger than that length, the effect was, in spite of the efforts of the commissioners of fisheris, the rapid diminution of this valuable food and game fish in the streams of the state. With the new law inforced the black bass will have a chance to increase.

TWO DEM DS DROP

Auditor Morton Criticised Cleveland and Carlisle Too Freely and Has Been Removed.

Washington June 5.—The President today removed from office C. Morton, Democrat, of Maine, Auditor in the Treasury for the Navy Department. At the beginning of Mr. Cleveland's first term Mr. Morton was appointed Commissioner of Navigation and served four years. When Harrison came in he left the service, but two years ago he was again given an important position, the one he has held until to-day.

The difficulty which culminated to-day began several months ago, when information, it is said, reached the department that Morton had, both during his former and his present term of office, written letters of a highly improper character to parties in his native State, reflecting upon the President and Secretary Carlisle. The officials, it is said, took the trouble to verify this information, and his summary removal to-day is the result.

The Secretary of the Treasury has called for the resignation of W. Manogue, Collector of the Port of Georgetown, D. C. Charges were made several months ago that Mr. Manogue had not turned into the Treasury monies received by him within the time required by law, and the case has since been pending. He is a leader in the local Democratic organization.

Centre County's Mystery.

A few days ago the body of an unknown man was found in the woods near Fowler station, Centre county. A small sum of money was lying near the body but there was no paper or anything by which identifications of the remains might be establish. ed.

District Attorney F. [illegible]lin, of Lancaster has received a letter from Justice of the Peace Osman, of Port Matilda, Centre county, which inquires as to the whereabouts of the family of one Henry Garman, who is supposed to live in Lancaster county. The justice states that the skeleton of a man was found in a secluded place and the clothing on it corresponds with that worn by a man giving the name of Henry Garman. Mr. Garman disappeared in August 1894. He stated that he was on the way from Kansas to his former home in Lancaster county. There were $9.65 found at the feet of the skeleton, and close to the money was a rooted purse, Justice Osman believes that the man is that of Garman.

Big Fuss Over a Little Affair.

London, June 7.—The Central News has received a dispatch from Oxford in reference to the assertion cabled from the United States alleging that President Gevelin, of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic association, had received a letter from the athletic committee of Oxford and Cambridge universities, stating that the resolutions of the University of Pennsylvania association in regard to a contest with a team of the English universities were regarded as satisfactory. The dispatch says: "You are authorized to state that the answer of the Oxford athletic association to Mr. Gevelin simply formally acknowledged the receipt of an intimation that the university of Pennsylvania Athletic association intended to send a challenge, and promised to duly consider such a challenge conjointly with the Cambridge university committee. The answer did not express either satisfaction or dissatisfaction.

Blown to Pieces.

Erie, June 5.—A dynamite explosion occurred this afternoon at the water works that was attended with terrible results. Captain Lathrop, who is in charge of the improvements being made at the water works, had been doing some blasting. He was assisted by Charles Harrity. Harrity had attached the wires of the electrical apparatus to a 25-pound cartridge, while Lathrop was doing some other work. Lathrop, not knowing what Harrity had done, touched the button. Harrity was torn to pieces, and Captain Lathrop had his legs torn off. William Lawrie, Seifert Julake, Antofne Hedlind and John Hedlind were all badly hurt.

Lathrop lives in Buffalo, and had many years experience in handling dynamite. Harrity had been a fisherman, and had just commenced work on the water works improvements.

Professional Bicycle Races.

Under the management of O. S. Bunnell, there will be a series of bicycle races run at Brook Park, Lewisburg, on Friday, June 14th, which will bring together most of the crack professional riders of the world. The list of entries is quite large and more are being added each day. The managers are in correspondence with A. A. Zimmerman and John S. Johnson and are endeavoring to have them present. The track is an excellent one and will be put in fine condition. You can look for the mile to be run in 2:10 or under.

—The magnificent pyrotechnic displays put off on Thursday and Friday evenings were the work of Mr. Harry Dry, of Tyrone, and were designed by him and manufactured right here in Bellefonte. A more magnificent display could not have been secured anywhere else for double the amount of money and the committees having the fireworks in charge were fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Dry and his assistants.

WILDE ON THE TREADMILL.

He Must Continue There Till June 22, When He Will Be Put at Other Hard Work.

London, June 5.—Oscar Wilde is not insane, as has been reported. On the contrary the weekly report of the Governor of Pentonville Prison Department today corrects the sensational story.

He said that after recovery the next morning after conviction from his prostration, Wilde, on entering the prison, was well enough to be put on prison fare, and on Monday, May 27, was placed on the treadmill. Every day since then Wilde has performed regular service there and will not be relieved from that monotonous and terrible punishment until Monday, June 22.

At the end of this preliminary service after conviction, the lightest punishment for a prisoner in Wilde's class is work at ruling forms for the prison department; but unless Wilde's health suffers meanwhile, he is certain to be put to the harder work of bag making for the remaining portion of his sentence.

The same authority informed your correspondent that under the existing rules, prisoners undergoing Wilde's sentence can obtain no permission of time in return for good conduct. But the Government Committee on Prison Discipline, presided over by Herbert Gladstone, has just made a recommendation which, if adopted by the prisoner's board, will extend to prisoners in Wilde's position certain benefits by which, should he earn the fullest possible number of marks for conduct and labor, Wilde will be eligible for release on license in 20 months. It is probable that the suggestion of the committee will be adopted.

A Bicycles is a Carriag.

Wheelmen and wheelwomen in the District of Columbia will take notice that they cannot go over the turnpikes of the State of Pennsylvania without paying toll. Whether they go in clubs, squads, pairs or singly; whether they move in platoons or in double or single file; whether they wear the regulation uniform or are otherwise apparelled; whether they move at a sober and dignified pace or display skill cavorting, they will, all and severally, be halted at the tollgate and required to pay for the use of the road at the rate of a cent a mile. Complaints that the road is rough, hilly, and furrowed with cart tracks will be of no avail in trying to effect a reduction of toll. It is a one priced system, no reduction for job lots or for regular customers. The State of Pennsylvania loves impartial justice and treats all riders of the wheel alike.

Hitherto there have been different practices on the Pennsylvania roads in the matter of bicycular vehiculation. The bicycle not being particularly designated in the turnpike laws or schedule of rates, best riders of that noble machine have, in most cases, been permitted to go through the gates as John Gilpin did, without money and without price. In other cases, however, the gatekeepers have sternly demanded tolls, and numerous quarrels, with an occasional fight, have resulted from this demand and the urgency with which it has been pressed. Finally the situation became so strained and the conditions of turnpike wheeling so exasperating that the matter got into the Courts. In most matters requiring judicial determination there are long delays and weary years elapse before a final answer "is handed down." But this was felt to be an affair of moment, affecting the feelings and pockets of wheel riders and pike owners and the dignitity of the Commonwealth. Therefore the case was expedited. It went through the "court below" and into the Court of last resort as if it were mounted on the speediest wheel and was trying to break a record. Without a moment of needless delay the Court of last resort tackled the case, and, after weighing all the learned and luminous arguments of able counsel on the side of the wheelmen and equally able counsel on the side of the turnpike corporations, that Court has decided against the former and for the latter. In other words, the Court holds that "bicycles are carriages" and must pay the toll required of carriages.

We do not say that this is not good law. Whatever may be thought of its practical justice, it must stand as the law of the State until reversed. Of course, if a bicycle is a carriage, so is a wheelbarrow, so is a baby's perambulator, and so is the cripple's little wagon that he propels with his own handpower. But this ruling will have at least one good effect. It will add to the strength of the movement for good, free roads. It will hasten to the exit of that superannuated institution, the turnpike. The bicycle interest is a very great one, and it is growing rapidly. Washington Post.

Senator Penrose Should Act.

The plain state of facts regarding the Judges' Retirement bill is that it is in a position to be passed within a week if the influences that have held it up can be withdrawn. The bill having passed the House, was favorably reported to the Senate and passed first reading. Then, Senator Quay having expressed his disapproval, it was recommitted, with the evident purpose of killing it would result in its defeat in the House. That the bill was recommended with the intention that it should be left in committee on the day of adjournment appears to be clear, but the Senate has changed its mind on other subjects, and why not on this? Senator Penrose, who appears to be proud of the peculiar distinction of acting as the henchman of Senator Quay on the floor of the Senate, knows that it is an important and just measure. As a lawyer he is familiar with the fact that the salaries of Judges in Pennsylvania are not munificent, and that Judges who have given the best years of their life to the service of the Commonwealth cannot afford to retire when age creeps on for they could not then re-establish themselves as members of the Bar. He knows that they deserve to be retired on adequate pensions, that younger men may take their places and that the office of Judge may be made more attractive to the best lawyers of the State. With this knowledge Senator Penrose should go to Senator Quay and represent to him that his selfish opposition to the Judges' Retirement bill is not politic; that whatever he may gain in one way by its defeat he will lose in another, and that in short he will, if he has half the discretion he should have, permit the bill to be made a law in accordance with the wishes of the bar, the people and a majority of the Legislature. No appointments that can be made to fill vacancies can do Senator Quay half the harm that will come to him as a leader if he further insolently resists public sentiment, and, for personal reasons, defeats a just measure of proposed legislation. Senator Penrose can, if he chooses, do the State and his party a great service by acting as a missionary in this matter and securing the withdrawal of the only opposition, that of Mr. Quay, which blocks the passage of the Judges' Retirement bill through the Senate.

A Big Drive.

Dr. S. C. Stewart and the editor spent a day recently in visiting the celebrated horse Bazaars, in Philadelphia, and before the day closed both had been induced to make purchases. Charley Smith, youngest brother of Sheriff Smith, who had been consulting a physician in the city, longed to drive from Philadelphia to Clearfield and was finally given the permit to do so. A map was secured and a route, which covered nearly three hundred miles, mapped out. Charley was directed to "go slow," as it was very warm, but it seems he could not hold his team, and the first day drove 71 miles, reaching the city of Lancaster at 4.30 p. m. From Lancaster to Harrisburg; from Harrisburg to Newport; thence to Mifflin, Lewistown, Milroy and Bellefonte, and from Bellefonte to Snow Shoe, which point he reached at the end of the fourth day. From that place he came to Clearfield, via Karthaus, for dinner, a distance of forty-three miles, when the thermometer was 98 in the shade. Charley was well pleased with the trip, and tells some funny stories of the Lancaster Dutch and the toll gates.—Raftsman's Journal.

The Outlook for Crops Good.

The weather crop bulletin for the week ending June 3d, issued by the State weather service says: "The high percentage of sunshine and tropical warm of the past week, was beneficial to most crops, and rapid growth was made where the moisture was sufficient. In many sections rain is badly needed. Wheat is in bloom with prospects of a good yield. Corn improved in color and growth. Most of the replanting has been finished. Vegetables are growing finely, and the effects of damages by frosts are rapidly disappearing. Fruit prospects are more encouraging. Grass is generally reported in good condition. Potato bugs continue plentiful and cut worms are decreasing."

For the annual tournament of the Northern Pennsylvania and Western New York Band Association, to be held at Philipsburg, Pa., June 20 and 21, the Pennsylvania Railaoad Company will sell on June 19, 20, and 21 excursion tickets to Philipsburg from Williamsport, Emporium, and intermediate stations; stations on Tyrone Division, and from Altoona, Huntingdon, and intermediate stations, at a single fare for the round trip (no less rate than 25 cents). The ticket will be good for return passage until June 22 inclusive.

—"The bloomer dress," says a western humorist, "is a pair of trousers very baggy at the knees, abnormally full at the pistol pockets, and considerably full where you strike a match. The garment is cut decollette at the south end, and the bottom tied around the ankles or knees to keep the mice out. You can't put it over your head like you do your shirt, nor around you like a corset, but you must sit on the floor and pull it on just as you do your stockings, one foot at a time in each compartment. You can easily tell the right side to have in front by the buttons on the neckband."

Pennsylvania Railroad Company's Summer Excursion Route Book.

The Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will, on June 1, publish its annual Summer Excursion Route Book. This work, which is compiled with the utmost care and exactness, is designed to provide the public with short descriptive notes of the principal Summer resorts of Eastern America, with the routes for reaching them and the rates of fare. There are over four hundred reports in the book, to which rates are quoted, and over fifteen hundred different ways of reaching them, or combinations of routes are set out in detail. The book is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of Summer travel ever offered to the public.

Its 210 pages are inclosed in a handsome and striking cover, in colors. Several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold, are bound in the book. It is also profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad and elsewhere.

Any doubt as to where the Summer should be passed will be dispelled after a careful examination of the contents of this publication.

On and after June 1 it may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to the general office, Broad Street Station, by mail for twenty cents.

MANY things are done in the name of organized labor that would eternally discredit a less commendable institution. The riot at the coal mines near Wheeling is a case in point. A number of men willing to work at the scale fixed by the miners' convention at Columbus started before the mass had been given employment. They were driven out of the mine, beaten with clubs and thrown over an embankment 100 feet high. Such a proceeding is utterly without excuse and a menace to industry. It is a flagrant outrage against the fundamental guarantee of the country to every citizen of the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and should be avenged by every power of law and government.

SNOW two feet deep in one state of this republic and the citizens of other states sweltering with the heat at one hundred degrees, gives an idea of the extremes of temperature on the American continent. Young people of Colorado enjoying a sleigh ride when others found it difficult to keep cool in the most sequested spots, is worth thinking about. This is, indeed, a great country in everything, even including weather. There are few countries on the face of the earth whose borders can include such a variety of temperature at one time.

Many Women Will Recognize It.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"Oh, I am so nervous! No one ever suffered as I do! There isn't a well inch in my whole body! I honestly think my lungs are diseased, my chest pains me so; but I've no cough. I'm so weak at my stomach, and have indigestion horribly. Then I have palpitation, and my heart hurts me. How I am losing flesh! and this headache nearly kills me; and the backache—Heavens! I had hysterics yesterday. There is a weight in the lower part of my bowels, bearing down all the time; and there are pains in my groins and thighs. I can't sleep, walk, or sit. I'm diseased all over. The doctor? Oh! he tells me to keep quiet. Such mockery!

Inflammatory and ulcerative conditions at the neck of the womb can produce all the above symptoms in the same person. In fact, there is hardly a part of the body that can escape those sympathetic pains and aches.

No woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is positively no need of it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts promptly and thoroughly in such cases; strengthens the muscles of the womb, heals all inflammation, and restores that unruly organ to its normal condition. Druggists are selling carloads of it. Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will gladly and freely answer all letters asking for advice.

Mrs. E. Bishop, 787 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N.Y., suffered all the above described horrors. Now she is well. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her. Write her about it.

QUITE A SCHEME.

Was the One Which Bank Clerk Gilmore Tried to Get Through.

Media, Pa., June 6.—The trial for forgery of the young bank clerk, John F. Gilmore, of Williamsport, Pa., began here to-day and some astonishing facts were brought out. The charge for which young Gilmore was tried to-day was for passing a forged draft on the Delaware County Trust company at Chester.

The evidence at the trial to-day shows a scheme of cunning almost unparalleled in cases of this kind; Gilmore's resignation at the West Branch bank took place last February and a few days later he presented at the Chester bank a cashier's draft from the West Branch bank on the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank of Philadelphia. He said that he wanted to open an account with the Chester bank. The draft was drawn to the order of D. S. McDonald, and Gilmore represented himself as being that individual.

The Chester bank refused to allow Gilmore to open an account unless identified. In the meantime the West Branch bank at Williamsport had been notified and word was received from it to hold the draft, as it was crooked. But the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank had, through the clearing house, forwarded the money to Chester.

Gilmore had kept an account at the Equitable Trust company for several years under the name of C. R. Jones. Under this name he deposited a check on the Delaware County Trust company for $400, payable to D. S. McDonald.

Then letters were issued by the Williamsport bank, and the Philadelphia postoffice was notified. Gilmore had a box under the name of Jones, and he was nipped one day in the Philadelphia postoffice. No charge of robbing the mails has been against him.

Nearly a Serious Fire.

In January last P. Flynn finishsd cutting a tract of timber near Bald Eagle Furnace into lumber and removed his portable mill to VanScoyc where he operated awhile then located his mill near the church at Bald Eagle where he is now operating. The accumulation of saw dust where the mill was first located, about half a mile above Bald Eagle station near the railroad, is from one to six feet deep. While the mill was in operation there last summer this saw dust took fire in some way, but as it is very slow to burn no attention was paid to it, as nothing of value was in convenient reach of the fire,

The fire continued to smoulder and burn in the saw dust under the heavy snows of last winter, but since the snow left some effort having been made to extinguish it, the supposition was that during the past month or so no fire was there, until recently when smoke and smothered fire became visible again. No one being about the place the fire became stronger, and on Tuesday afternoon ignited a pile of about fifty cords of slabs, which had but little value, and burned them up with about 3000 feet of lumber which was piled near the slabs.

Henry Hoover is operating a mill near Bald Eagle station, and seeing the fire, himself and men proceeded at once to the place, as did Thomas Balling and other farmers of the vicinity, as well as two or three other men who were working at the mill of Mr. Flynn. They arrived just in time to prevent the fire from burning another lot of lumber which is worth about $1,000. The lumber burned was worth only about $30 or $40. None of it was insured and had it all burned it would have been a severe loss to Mr. Flynn. The pile of slabs made a large and very hot fire.

Prohibitionists Nomtnate.

Pittsburg, June 6.—At the afternoon session of the prohibition convention the report of the committee on finance was read and it showed a balance of $37.86 on hand. An appeal was made for funds to carry on the cause of prohibition in Pennsylvania. The platform declared uncompromisingly for protection and the suppression of the liquor traffic; government ownership of railroad, telegraph and telephone companies and woman's suffrage. On the silver question a majority report favored free coinage while the minority opposed it.

W. H. Berry was nominated for State Treasurer. Mr. Berry intimated that there was not much of a platform for him to stand on, principally on account of the division on the silver question. The convention voted in favor of an eight-hour working day. After a popular mass meeting to-night the convention adjourned.

Gilmore Not Guilty.

Media, Pa., June 7.—The jury in the case of John F. Gilmore on trial for forgery returned a verdict this afternoon of not guilty. The jury rendered its verdict at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon, having been out since 5.10 o'clock last evening. Gilmore was formerly a clerk in the West Branch bank, of Williamsport. The charge on which he was tried was for passing a forged draft on the Delaware County Trust company at Chester. "Now," said Gilmore, to his pretty young wife, when the verdict was announced, "you will not believe all these things the district attorney has said about me."

The visiting firemen should have stayed for to-day's parade and then they would have seen a display that was at least larger than theirs.

NO TRAGIC SCENES.

Followed the Hanging of John Eisinminger at Waynesburg.

Waynesburg, Pa., June 6.—John Eisinminger, the third man to be hanged in Green county, was executed this afternoon. The trap was sprung at 1.24, and in eleven minutes his pulse ceased. The doctors pronounced him dead at forty-one minutes from the time he fell. The hanging was witnessed by about 300 people, among those present being Mrs. McCoy, the widow of Eisinminger's victim. She called to see him this forenoon and an affecting scene followed. She had received the young man's letter, expressing repentance and asking her forgiveness, and she came to tell him that she did forgive him. The morning was spent in prayer and leave taking. The parting from his young wife almost unnerved Eisinminger, and he was terribly weak after this ordeal. After this his spiritual advisors spent several hours with him, leaving the prisoner much refreshed and calmly awaiting his end.

It was 1.15 o'clock when Eisinminger marched up the gallows steps between Sheriff Kent and the latter's son Percy, who acted as deputy. Tears were rolling down Eisinminger's cheeks and he was somewhat nervous. Rev. Stevenson, who had baptized him, read the Scriptures and there was a prayer by Rev. McKain Eisinminger repeated the Lord's prayer in a firm tone, that a sob now and then broke.

When Sheriff asked what he had to say, he replied: "There is nothing else that I can say than that my confession is entirely correct. I wish to state positively that there was not any one connected with it but me. I hope you will forgive me."

The black cap was then adjusted and then Sheriff Kent, with a fervent "God bless you," sprung the trap. Eisnminger struggled slightly. In a brief space his body swung limp and motionless, for his neck was broken. John McCoy, a brother of the murdered man, was another who witnessed the execution. The body was then removed from the jail and taken charge of by the dead man's relatives.

A County Road Law.

Though the record of this Legislature will probably show more good bills killed than passed there will be certainly a few good measures to its credit. Senator Flinn's road bill is not yet entirely out of the woods, but its passage yesterday by the House encourages the belief that it will be one of the solid gains of the session.

A comprehensive modern road bill stood no chance in this Legislature. A thorough reform in roadmaking so as to insure good, smooth, hard roads at seasons cannot be secured on a comprehensive and extended scale without State aid. The condition of the Treasury did not justify a State aid law at this juncture, even if the Legislature had been in other respects ripe for it. New Jersey is improving her roads rapidly and in a most satisfactory manner by virtue of such a law. Pennsylvania will come to it in time, for the through roads that join the county seats with each other and with the capital and the chief cities of the State are not local roads. Their improvement ought not to halt at county lines with the result that forty miles of telford road is succeeded by forty miles of mud. The State only can insure stem roads which shall be good continuously, but the time for this highly desirable reform has not yet arrived in Pennsylvania.

The great step in advance taken by the Flinn bill is its making the county rather than the township the center and source of improved road construction. The County Commissioners are the improved road makers in each county, though their power is limited by the necessity of having their plans approved by the Grand Jury and the court. The Commissioners are authorized to levy a tax for road construction and maintenance. The kind of roads the Commissioners are to build is not specifically defined in the bill, but the character of the work which they are expected to perform may be inferred from the title of the proposed act, which is one "providing for the permanent improvement of certain public roads and highways." Only such roads as the County Commissioners select for permanent improvement come under the jurisdiction and these they are "authorized and empowered to relocate, open, straighten, widen, extend, alter and construct."

This seems to give authority enough to the County Commissioners with the approval of the Court and Grand Jury to reconstruct old roads and construct new ones on improved and approved lines, We fear it will prove cumbrous in practice and improvements and it will proceed slowly because of the large number of minds that must agree in considering it desirable before anything is done. It is a good start, however, and affords a good basis for future legislation when its defects and merits have been demonstrated in practice. We hope that the bill will succeed in passing the few remaining stages of legislation before it. If it does not give us very much road improvement at once it will make it much easier to secure more perfect legislation hereafter.

Lester Shaeffer had the most admired bicycle in Thursday night's parade.

A crowd of visiting firemen, who remained in Bellefonte, had a jubilee all of last night in the diamond.

AS TO THE MIDLAND.

Work is now Being Prosecuted on the New Railroad.

Bedford, Pa., June 7.—Work was resumed to-day on the Pennsylvania Midland from Bedford to McKee's Gap. Nothing has been done towards the completion of this branch since January last. Two years have been consumed in the ineffectual attempt to construct a railway without money at hand. The first trouble arising was when Colonel C. H. Hobart decamped from these parts, leaving all contractors and employes without pay. Since then different managements have assumed control, but work has gone slowly. The complement of the road is now under the direction of Theodore Genish, of Lewistown, Me. All new contracts are being made and from appearances we may anticipate a direct communication with Altoona within a few months.

A gang of 200 Hungarians are now employed in putting in the last bridge along the route. Five miles of track are laid and the material for the entire construction is now on the ground. Three new engines have been ordered from the shops and are daily expected here.

This connection with the main line will open up a new avenue of commerce for the fertile farming country lying in the northern section of Bedford county and will no doubt occasion a boom in this place. A route connecting with the Pennsylvania Midland has been surveyed which will open up the rich coal fields of Somerset county. These coal fields promise a rich production, but are comparatively unworked, since no ready means of transportation has ever before been offered.

Harrity Will Call No Convention.

Philadelphia, June 7.—National Chairman William F. Harrity has written the following letter in answer to queries put to him regarding the possibility of a Democratic national convention in the near future to take action on the subject of free silver:

Philadelphia, June 6.—I do not intend or expect to call a meeting of the Democratic national committee until next winter, when I will meet for the purpose of fixing the time and place for holding the Democratic national convention of 1896, unless I shall be requested to do so by the requisite number of members of the Democratic national committee.

I do not believe there is any necessity for a convention at thistime; on the contrary, I am of the opinion that to call one now would be harmful to the business interests of the country and prejudicial to the welfare of the Democratic party.

[Signed.] WILLIAM F. HARRITY,
Chairman Democratic National Committee.

When called upon to-day Mr. Harrity said that he had no views to express at this time on the money question, and had nothing whatever to say further than is contained in the above letter.

Cleveland Makes Appointments.

Washington, June 7.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon the following appointments were announced at the white house: Secretary of State, Richard Olney, of Massachusetts; attorney general, Judson Harman, of Ohio.

Mr. Harman is a man about 50 years of age, possibly a few over that number, and a resident of Cincinnati. His name has not been used in the gossip about the successor to Mr. Olney, except possibly in private. For some years he was judge of the common court of common pleas of Hamilton county and upon the removal of ex-Governor Hoadley to New York he became the head of the law firm with which the latter had been connected. He is said to be one of the foremost lawyers of the central states.

The Tramp's Opportunity.

Queer things happen in this world. A tramp took refuge in an old grave yard in Georgia and prepared for a sound night's rest between two graves. About the hour when churchyards are supposed to "yawn" he was awakened by a strange noise, and on looking up he discovered an escaped convict in the act of filling his shackles. As the tramp stood up the convict, in superstitious terror, fell upon his knees, where upon the tramp arrested him, delivered him over to the authorities at the camp near by and received a reward of $20.

Will be Kept Open.

At the earnest request of many citizens, the Relic Committee have decided to keep Curio Hall open for public exhibition until and including Wednesday next, June 12. Therefore, all who have not seen the many interesting things there collected will have an opportunity to do so; and they should not fail to take advantage of this occasion, as they may never again have such a good chance to see so many old and interesting relics of the past.

Foreigners Arrested for Riot.

On Tuesday twenty-five Hungarians, Italians and Austrians were arrested at Kittanning Point where they were working on the new reservoir for Mr. Collins. The men struck for higher wages and a riot ensued on Tuesday morning. These men were brought to Altoona, given a hearing before an alderman and held in $500 for their appearance at court. Being unable to furnish bail they were taken to Hollidaysburg and locked up.

The cool temperature of Thursday and to-day was somewhat again the dispensation of lemonade, ice cold, and the various soft drinks. Hot coffee would have been more in order.

WATCHING OUR COAST.

A Spanish Man-of-War Reported off Florida's Shores.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 7.—A special from Fernandina, Fla., says: Captain Woodruff, of the schooner Greenleaf Johnson which arrived in port this evening, reports a man-of-war, which he believes to be a spaniard, lying off Cumberland sound about six miles from shore. There is no doubt Spain is jealous by watching Florida harbors for filibustering expeditions, the fear being occasioned by the presence of Queseda, Cespedes, the Collazo brothers and other Cuban leaders in the state. Queseda and the Collazo brothers have been here in consultation with N. B. Borden and it is supposed their presence had something to do with some important movement. The Cubans left here to-day, ostensibly for Jacksonville, but it is expected that they are still on Amelia island. Borden left late this evening on his yacht Minim. Just what sort of a movement is contemplated is hard to tell.

A cablegram from Key West, Fla., says: Unusual excitement has been noticed among the Cuban population for the past day or two, and it is now positively known that an expedition of 200 or 300 well equipped men, Cubans and Americans, has left this city since Wednesday.

The customs officials are exerting every effort to prevent infraction of the neutrality laws. A prominent Cuban says this expedition is the best equipped of any that has left the states and if successful in landing will put a different face on Cuban affairs.

At Home at Last.

An unknown exchange says: An adventist in northern Mich., prophesied that the end of the world would come at a certain date just passed. When the day arrived he put on his ascension robes, climbed to the top of a straw stack and waited the crack of doom. He became tired of waiting and fell asleep. Some boys discovered him and after touching a match to the straw, awakened him. Gazing around him at the flames on every side, he cried out, "In h—ll, just as I expected.

—The county commissioners are now hard at work sending out the revised assess books.

—There ought to be a circus or two come along soon to break the monotony that seems to exist at present.

—The next big time will be at Hecla Park on the 20th, when the Christian Associations of three counties will hold a grand jubilee.

—Work was resumed on the paving of the diamond on Monday and it will only be a few days now until we will have a good public square.

—Not one accident was reported as happening in the past two days, a most remarkable thing considering the extraordinary large crowds.

—The police report for the two days counts up only four arrests, and they all illegal, and no fights. A very good showing for Bellefonte and Centre countians.

—And now that the centennial is over work on the diamond will at once be resumed and that important place put in a completed condition, which will be a great improvement.

—Twenty-four students of the class of '99, State College, banquetted at the Fallon House, Lock Haven, on Monday night, returning to the College Tuesday morning. H. P. Newell acted as toast-master.

—Marie Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wise, died on Tuesday afternoon, aged 2 years, 2 months and 26 days. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

—Margaret, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lindsay, of Johnstown, but who were formerly both of Bellefonte, died in the hospital in Philadelphia on Friday where she was taken to have an operation performed on her head.

—J. Malcolm Laurie, whose laundry was so badly damaged by fire last Friday, has gotten things in such a shape that he is able to go ahead washing as usual. Mac. has built up a large custom and we are glad he will be able to accommodate his patrons.

—Frank N. Wrye, of Loveville, and Miss Jennie Biestline, of Tyrone, were married at the United Evangelical parsonage in Lock Haven, by the Rev. H. A. Benfer, Thursday evening. On Friday they came to Bellefonte and took in the Centennial.

—The democratic county convention though large in point of numbers, was lacking considerable in enthusiasm. It was all the delegates could do to get up even a second-rate cheer, and even the speech of the presiding officer was not hopeful of success in the very near future.

—Mr. F. Potts Green has made a few alterations in his drug store which will be a great improvement. A new ice chest has been put in near the soda fountain, and the window so arranged that chairs can be placed therein for the accommodation of customers.

—Appearances for a large grain crop were never better in Centre county than they are this summer. And as to hay, there will be an over-abundance of it. There also promises to be a fair crop of apples, pears and small fruits, while the vegetable crop will be about the average.

—The railroads will carry a man from New York to San Francisco for $80. They will carry a hog weighing the same as a man for $6. Congresemen free. The advantage in favor of a hog is $74, and the advantage of being a congresseman is $80. The people are not in it when it comes to a show down with the hogs and congressmen.

—The ladies of the Village improvement committee should notify the county commissioners to remove the old wire fence about the park. It is an unsightly affair, not in keeping with the surroundings and should be torn away. We think one notice from the ladies would have the desired effect.

—The Watchman's Centennial edition of last week was a credit to the editors and an honor to the town. Its twelve pages were replete from beginning to end with important historical facts of one hundred years ago and lengthy reports of the doings of last week. It is an issue that should be preserved by all.

—Did you get one of Sam Taylor's "Souvenir Album's?" If you did not, you have missed one of the handsomest and best mementoes of the Bellefonte Centennial that could be purchased during the week. It was truly a work of art from beginning to end. The engravings were all well made from exceedingly well taken photographs and printed on very heavy calendared paper. If you failed to get one Sam may have a few left and you had better see him soon if you would be the possessor of this beautiful book.

NEARLY everyone needs a good tonic at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true tonic and blood purifier. 6-13-1t

WHY NOT A COUNTY FAIR?

It Would be a Good Investment for Bellefonte and the County.

Last fall when a move was made to organize a Centre County Fair Association, it received a set-back from various sources and for many reasons—the principal one being, however, the fear that there would be nothing in it. Such a reason should now be entirely set aside.

Let the citizens of the town, and especially the business men, take a backward glance at the crowd in Bellefonte last week during the two days of the centennial. t was immense. Was business any better those two days than it was before, or has been since? Of course it was. No difference if there was not an amount of money expended that might have been expected from such a large crowd, there was still a great deal more than the business men have been taking in since, or than they took in before. What, then, does this fact portend? Only one conclusive point: That whenever a crowd is here there will undoubtedly be better business to a greater or less extent. And what would a fair ground mean for Bellefonte? A crowd during a week in the spring to attend races; a crowd during a week in the fall to attend a county fair; and such are the crowds that spend money, and spend it freely. Is it then not plain to be seen what advantage there would be in a fair grounds for Bellefonte?

And now, while the benefit to be derived from such gatherings is yet fresh in the minds of all, would not the time be propitious now to agitate the matter and see if it is at all possible to organize such an association? It seems to the writer that if the proper amount of effort was to be put forth, it would not be a difficult matter to do.

And while the advantage to Bellefonte has been discussed, it must be remembered that it will be a benefit to every farmer and stock raiser in Centre county. They, too, will have a common interest in the association with the people of the county capital. There will be hundreds and thousands of dollars awarded in prizes every year, and the stimulus given to agriculture in every portion of the county, as well as to all manner of trades and callings will be well worth many hundred dollars. Now this is a matter which should be carefully weighed and considered in all its various phases, and we cannot help but see that the wide awake business man can arrive at but one conclusion—we must have a County Fair.

A June Wedding.

Mr. Elmer C. Brown, brother of our well-know friend, Lawrence Brown, now of Hastings, was on the 5th inst. united by marriage to Frances Betterman Gregg, daughter of the late Col. Theo. Gregg, of the 45th Pa. Vol., at the residence of the Misses Gregg, Milesburg, by the Rev. Dr. Freeman, of the First Presbyterian Church, of Huntingdon, Pa.

The house was beautifully decorated in the drawing rooms with laurel and ferns. The bride and maid of honor wore white. The guests, including the brothers and brothers and sisters of the groom were about 48 in number, mostly relatives and friends of the bride and the groom. Those from Bellefonte were Mr. John Curtin and daughter, Mrs. John I. Curtin, Mrs. Capt. Austin Curtin, Mrs. Sarah I. Potter and Mr. John I. Potter.

The whole affair was a credit in the manner in which the guests were served and entertained to the Misses Gregg, Mrs. Dr. Loomis, of Lewisburg; Miss Ella Levy and others who assisted.

The bride received many handsome and valuable presents.

At Eagleville.

The Liberty Baptist Church, of Eagleville, Centre county, Pa., will hold their Children's Day exercises on Sunday evening, June 16th, consisting of songs, recitations and speeches, in which the children will take a leading part.

The choir will also render some fine music.

Rev. F. S. Dobbins, of Philadelphia, Secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, will speak on the subject, "Foreign Missions," in the Liberty Baptist Church on Sunday evening, June 30th. The reverend gentleman was a missionary in Japan, and can tell you what he heard and saw among that most interesting people. He will speak in Milesburg Baptist Church at 11 a. m. the same day.

AT STATE COLLEGE.

Dr. David M. Breed Delivers the Baccalaureate Sermon.

Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock the annual State College commencement was commenced with the preaching of the Baccalaureate sermon by Dr. David M. Breed, of Pittsburg. A large audience was present in the College chapel and the sermon was a most interesting one throughout.

Dr. Breed's text was I Timothy IV.: 8, "Godliness is profitable unto all things." His subject was "The profit of godliness," and the sermon was an exhibition of the practical advantage of a religious life.

Young manhood is laboring under a great popular fallacy, very generally accepted and pursued as the truth, but preventing the noblest achievement and best success. This fallacy has two sides. First and chiefly, Brains; secondly, Opportunity. These two errors, together with the truth which they oppose, are expressed in the proverb: "Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them." "Born great," Brains; "Greatness thrust upon them," Opportunity; but true greatness is secured only by achievement.

Dr. Breed first passed the two great errors in review.

First. Brains are the popular idol of the day. They are rated as the most important element contributing to success in life. But they furnish a very poor working rule for the average man, since they doom him in advance to mediocrity and comparative failure. They discourage honest effort, destroy ambition and consign the great multitude to the inferior position of hewers of wood and drawers of water—mere lackeys, waiting upon the nod of some acknowledged success.

Second. Opportunity, or "luck," as it is often called, is often adopted in lieu of brains. It is the little household god in many a circle. It appears in many forms, from the coarse and brutal phase of the gambling den to the more refined but equally discreditable one of the stock market or the produce exchange. It is equally untrustworthy as a working rule in life. It has wrecked multitudes of lives.

These points were emphasized by the preacher with a variety of incidents and illustrations. He then passed to the consideration of the true theory.

Third. Godliness is profitable unto all things. It outranks all other elements contributing to success. Moral power is supreme. The peerless minds of all the ages, and in all departments of life, have won their rank chiefly because of their convictions and character, the speaker referring in proof, to a large number of examples in art, science, literature, politics and commercial life. "Look about you," said Dr. Breed, "and consider the lawyers, doctors, merchants and mechanics of your own communities. Are the men who succeed the shysters, and empirics, and schemers, and sharpers, and tricksters, and humbugs generally? or are they rather, as a rule, the men whose sentiments are reflected in the heroic words of a certain great statesman, who, offered the Presidential nomination on condition of the surrender of certain principles, replied: "I would rather be right, than be President."'

The closing portion of the sermon was occupied with a statement of the relation between godliness and other elements. Brains are not determinate, they are accorded only second place. Yet, be it remembered, that the best quality of brain is moral quality. He who goes intellectually astray on moral questions is deficient in brains, and cannot be safely trusted.

Opportunity also is not to be despised. But it must be remembered again that an opportunity is not always a providence. "It is well," said the preacher, "to look all about an opportunity and search its skirts for hidden weapons before throwing yourself into its arms." The felt lack of brains has often provoked splendid exertion and the lack of opportunity has often proved the best opportunity. At all events he who makes the Creator the chief factor in his plans and follows the Lord Jesus Christ as his Redeemer and his Lord, though he win no great renown, will at last be able to say with the great apostle "I have fought a good fight."

This abstract, however, poorly represents the sermon. Its power did not consist in the line of reasoning pursued, nor the particular arguments presented, which were not unusual; but in the wealth of striking and convincing illustration which the speaker derived from history and personal observation and with which his points were so pressed as to seem incontestable, and therefore highly stimulating and helpful.

At Hecla Park.

And now the people of Bellefonte, and especially the Christian workers in the community, can give some thought and time to the grand rally to be held at Hecla Park June 20th, a week from Thursday. This will be one of the most notable events of the kind ever held in the State and our people should spare no efforts to make it an unbounded success.

Such prominent speakers as Hon. John Wanamaker, Sen. S. R. Peale, Gen. James A. Beaver, Rev. Harvey Graeme Furbay and James I. McCormick, Esq., will be present, and the music will be of the finest. Everybody should turn out on that day.

W. H. Harris' new nickle plate 10 and 20 cent show is to be in Huntingdon on Friday, June 14th.

THE CENTENNIAL CLOSES.

The Bellefonte Jubilee Pronounced A Great Success by All.

As the DAILY NEWS went to press early on Friday we could not give a very elaborate report of even the parade, but it can be said, by even the citizens of Bellefonte, as it was said by all visitors, that the demonstration was exceedingly fine and a pronounced success. The various organizations presented a very nice appearance and comprised a very important part of the parade, but it was left for the boys Cadets, the "March of Progress" and the industrial display to draw from the large crowd of on lookers their heartiest applause and exclamations of delight. And it can truly be said it was all well merited. No one but a member of one of the committees has any idea of the undercurrent opposition to a celebration that existed in Bellefonte even up until last Saturday, and for the few who did the work, it was like pulling a dead weight up hill. But the few persevered and struggled along and finally succeeded in getting up such an interest that the business men took hold of the work and prepared exhibits that did themselves great credit. We would very much like to describe every wagon in detail but such a task would be almost an endless one, so we will just say that they were all beautiful, well gotten up, a credit to the owners and an honor to the town.

For the boys' Cadet Corps it must be said that they are deserving of unusual credit. And not the boys alone but their drill masters, Hugh S. Taylor and Capt. C C. Bell, of the Bellefonte Commandery, No. 89, K. G. E. It is no little work to take in hand fifty-four boys and in a week's time drill them in tactics so that they march and drill with military precision, but that is just what these gentlemen did. The boys were commanded on Friday by Capt. Bell.

Another part of the parade that deserves more than a passing mention was the "March of Progress," the creation of Dr. H. K. Hoy. This was a wonderfully clever representation of old times and new and clearly illustrates that the Doctor is a whole team in himself at such work, and too much credit cannot be given him.

The parade ended about twelve o'clock and then the crowd all hunted dinner.

At 3 o'clock a public meeting was held in the court house at which C. M. Bower presided and introduced the orator of the day, Gen. James A. Beaver, who made a most interesting and accurate reminiscent address. Dr. William Laurie, D. D., was present and offered prayer and pronounced the benediction. After the meeting there was a band concert and then the large crowd of visitors enjoyed themselves in various ways until the fireworks were put off in the evening. This was a most beautiful exhibition and well worth seeing. The late trains on the various roads carried the most of the visitors to their homes and Bellefonte's celebration of its one hundredth anniversary has passed into history as a most notable event, notwithstanding the prediction of a whole army of "cranks" would be a fizzle.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

The decorators will soon have the town stripped of its adornment.

Those deserving special praise for the success of the celebration are W. A. Lyon, Dr. H. K. Hoy and Ira Mitchell, Esq. They all worked like Trojans against great odds.

The pocket-pickers got in their work beautifully. During the two days over a hundred persons, if all reports are correct, were relieved of sums of money ranging from 30 cents to $100; and not a man was caught in the act.

The Undines must be congratulated on the part they took (?) in the centennial. After accepting the invitation and promising to join in the parade with band and steamer, they demanded twenty-five dollars for an exhibition of themselves in the line. It is needless to say they did not get it, and so did not appear. Both fire companies, for that matter, ought to have been out in full force, after the way the town stood by them in Tnursday's demonstration.

Beck—Campbell.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that which occurred at the residence of Mr. Cornelius Campbell, 1214 Eighth avenue, Altoona, on Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock, when Dr. William Franklin Beck, son of Mr. Isaac Beck, of Halfmoon township, this county, and Miss Sara Craig Campbell were united in marriage by Rev. Henry Howard Stiles, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of that city. Miss Campbell is the eldest daughter of Mr. Cornelius Campbell, the well known coal operator of the Glen Campbell and Cambria mines. The bride is a young woman possessing more than an ordinary combination of good common sense and practicability which, with a cultivated mind and affable manner, have won for her hosts of friends, whose good wishes will follow her to her new home. Dr. Beck is a rising physician of Spruce Creek, formerly located at Tyrone, where he has established a large and lucrative practice.

A Long Trip.

On Tuesday evening says the Patton Courier C. W. Hodgkins started on his bicycle for Syracuse, N. Y., a distance of nearly one thousand miles. He went from Patton to Altoona and will go from there to Williamsport by the way of the Bald Eagle valley. He expects to wheel the entire distance and will remain away a week or ten days.

Orris—Grazier.

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grazier, in Warriorsmark, on Wednesday at high noon, when their daughter Annie was united in marriage to Geo. P. Orris, of Bellwood. Rev. I. M. Piper, of Williamsport, performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in white China silk and carried a large boquet of white carnations, while the maids of honor, Miss Florence Orris, of Milesburg, a sister of the groom, and Miss Della Grazier, a sister of the bride, wore white, trimmed with pink, and also carried boquets of carnations. Mr. Clement S. McMahon, Jr, of Bellwood, and Mr. H. H. Myers, of Lloydsville, were ushers. About forty guests were present from Bellefonte, Milesburg, Tyrone, Warriorsmark and Bellwood. The presents received were many and valuable. After congratulations had been given all were invited to the dining room where an elegant wedding dinner had been prepared. Amid a shower of rice the bridal pair were driven to Tyrone where they took the train for Lock Haven and from thence will go to Erie. During their absence of about a month they will make an extented wedding tour, visiting Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cincinnati, Cleveland and many other points of interest. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping on Cambria street, Bellwood. The groom is the assistant train dispatcher of the Pennsylvania and Northwestern Railroad.

Fire in the Steam Laundry.

About 4 o'clock Friday afternoon fire started in the steam laundry in the rear of the McClain block, and the sounding of the alarm caused consternation among the large crowd of vititors in Bellefonte, and as many as could get near flocked to the scene of the blaze. The flames spread rapidly, and being in the ironing room on the second floor, gained considerable headway before the fire compaies arrived. But when they did and got a couple of streams on the burning building, the flames were soon extinguished. Not, however, till the upper floor was pretty well gutted and the machinery on the lower floor almost ruined with water. The fire started by a shirt waist falling on a lighted gas jet.

J. Malcolm Laurie is the young and enterprising proprietor of the laundry and the mishap will badly inconvenience him as he had a large established custom. The loss is $200 with no insurance. Mac will proceed at once to fix up for an early resumption of business.

In a Logging Camp.

The sawmill of Rich & Co., at Gardeau, McKean county, employs forty hands, is lighted by electricity at night, and turns out 100,000 feet of sawed lumber every twenty-four hours. A branch road fourteen miles in length and which runs over high hills and stretches across deep ravines, hauls the logs and the bark. Walter S. Moore is the jobber, and his camp at that place will accommodate 100 men. James Consal & Son, of Eagleville, have charge of the camp. Mr. Moore has other jobs also, the entire number of men in his employ running over 600.

A short time ago there was not an acre of cleared land in that locality, but now a great area has been cleared.

Gardean has a hotel, school house and a number of buildings.

The Insallment Plan Legal.

A recent decision of the Supreme Court, this State, has reaffirmed the legality of selling goods on the installment plan. Articles leased under the bailment for use remains the property of the lessor until the final payment is made in accordance with the terms of the lease and cannot be seized by creditors of the lesse for his debts. This applies to sewing machines, organs, pianos, stoves, bicycles, wagons, horses and most anything else that can change hands without changing the character of the article in any way.
